All Sides Claiming Victory in Macedonia

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 3.—Accounts of the fighting between the former Balkan allies in Macedonia coming from various capitals of the nations concerned, are conflicting. The Servians and Greeks are issuing circumstantial reports of the Bulgarian troops, while the latter state just as emphatically that they are advancing toward Saloniki now in possession of the Greeks and at the same time against the Servians along the entire line.

Greeks Win Victory Over Bulgarians at Daudli

(By Associated Press.)

SALONIKI, July 3.—The battle between Greeks and Bulgarians, which began Wednesday, resulted in a complete victory for the Greeks, according to official reports. The Greek artillery silenced the Bulgarian guns and the Greek infantry then stormed the Bulgarian line, at Daudli. The Bulgarian troops were eventually driven away on the plain of Kukish.

3,000 Wounded Brought Off Macedonia's Fields

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 3.—The casualties during the fighting at Macedonia between the Servians and the Bulgarians and the Greeks and Bulgarians have been much heavier than the published figures would indicate, according to the Servian Red Cross society. The society has organized a corps of the Swiss Red Cross society asking it to dispatch doctors and nurses to the scene of hostilities.

The telegram stated that 3,000 wounded had been already brought from the front and that fighting continued.

Bulgarian Authorities Deny Reports of Servian Victories

(By Associated Press.)

SOFIA, July 3.—Authorities here absolutely deny all statements issued in Belgrade reporting the success of the Servian troops. An official statement says the Bulgarian troops repulsed the Servians and captured a number of villages on the banks of the Zlatnovska river in Macedonia. Afterward orders were given to the Bulgarians to cease fire and they returned to their former positions. The Servians are said to have suffered heavy losses.

TOOK EIGHT MONTHS TO DISPOSE OF $11.28 CHECK

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Eight months' worry by government accountants over the disposition of a check for $11.28, drawn to the order of a dead man was ended today by Comptroller of the Treasury Dockery. Last November the treasury department wrote out the draft, payable to "George W. Pitou, agent," for certain moneys or taxes paid the collector of customs at New York, on account of the French bark Leon Blum. Pitou died before the warrant reached him and government disbursing officers claimed the money should revert to the treasury. The comptroller held that while Pitou could not be paid personally the owners of the vessel were entitled to the amount.

SENATE REFUSES USE OF HALL AND ANGERS LOCAL SUFFRAGISTS

Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, One of the Leaders, Gives Out a Caustic Interview Following Georgia Senate's Action

MEETINGS PLANNED FOR TWO NIGHTS NEXT WEEK

"Cowboys Are Allowed to Ride All Over the Capitol on Their Horses, but Women Can't Meet There," Says One

Atlanta suffragettes are up in arms about the rebuff given them by the state senate Thursday when the members of the upper house by a vote of 20 to 7 refused to consider a request made by the women to use the senate chamber on the nights of July 9 and 10 for a meeting place.

"It is an outrage that the women of Georgia can not be accorded even the same courtesy given Washington cowboys who are allowed to ride all over the capitol on their horses," said Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, one of the woman suffrage leaders who appeared at the state house Thursday.

"Just because Senator Stark, who has got a bill about soft drinks, isn't in favor of woman suffrage we are not allowed even to use the senate chamber at night for a quiet meeeting. Why, every little organization or meeting in the state can get a room in the capitol for the mere asking."

HUIE CHAMPIONED MOVE.

The request of the suffrage advocates was presented in the upper house Thursday morning in form of a privileged resolution from Senator Huie of the Thirty-Fifth district.

In it were named Mrs. S. E. Cunningham, Mrs. William H. Felton, Miss Augusta Howard, Mrs. J. J. Ansley, Mrs. J. H. Sibley who desired the use of the senate chamber at 8 o'clock on on the nights of July 9 and 10 to discuss the subject, "The scope of the Electoral Franchise."

The resolution said that several men also desired to take part in the discussion but no names were given.

At its consideration Senator W. W. moved that it be laid and the table and there was no debate. The senate voted with Mr. Stark to turn down the request.

J. Y. SMITH ANOTHER CHAMPION.

"We will have one introduced in the house on Monday," said Mrs. McLendon; "Representative John Y. Smith of Fulton, has agreed to bring up the question and we hope to get it through.

"I don't see what believing in women's suffrage has to do with letting a few Georgia women use the senate chamber. It was discourteous of the members of the senate to say the least, but a great many of them are not very broad.

"We didn't ask them to vote on women's suffrage nor for their views on the question. We merely asked their permission to use the chamber and it was denied us churlishly."

FOUR WOMEN WILL WEAR ATLANTA POLICE BADGES

Chief Beavers to Appoint Four Women as Probation Officers on Force

Chief Beavers announced Thursday morning that instead of women police officers Atlanta will have women probation officers.

The chief has found that in order to appoint four women to the local police force it will be necessary first to change certain clauses in the civil service laws.

Anticipating difficulty in doing this, he has decided to get around it by appointing the women as probation officers, positions not covered by the civil service examinations. He will embody his intention in a recommendation to this effect to be introduced before the board of police commissioners at their meeting July 8.

The women will be police officers in all but name. According to the plan, as outlined by the chief Thursday morning, they will be four in number and will be under the authority of himself and Chief Lanford, to be used on assignments where women are especially concerned.

There are at present five probation officers in Atlanta, all men and all used only to help men and boys. The chief declares that these women probation officers will be the greatest aid to him in solving the vice problem that he ever has had.

They will be a great help in reforming women and guiding strangers and young girls who are new to the city, he said. At present, declared the chief, the department is practically helpless in a case involving a woman, as the men officers can only send her to jail or let her go if she has done wrong.

The women probation officers, he believes, will be the solution of the quandary. It takes a woman to understand a woman, he declared, and only a woman can help in certain cases which come before the police.

The board of commissioners will pass the chief's recommendation in all probability and the women officers will be installed at once.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 3.—"Old Jen," the favorite cavalry horse at Fort Leavenworth, after serving twenty-five years, has been retired to the fort's reservation at the regret of all officers. The animal has served in the Fourth, Sixth, Ninth and Fourteenth cavalry. Captain W. T. Johnston, of the Fifteenth cavalry, issued orders today prohibiting any one from riding, driving or in any way molesting "Old Jen," in his well earned retirement from active service.

Child Swallows Coin And Death Results

Little Son of Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Hammond Laid to Rest in Oakland

A nickel accidentally swalowed and stuck deep in his throat, baffling the efforts of three physicians t odisiodge it ,caused the death Tuesday in Florence, S. C., of Henry Neil Hammond, four-year-old son of the Rev. H. C. Hammond, former pastor of the Pryor Street Presbyterian church.

The child's body was brought to Atlanta and the funeral was held Thursday afternoon at the residence of G. C. Rogers, Mendenhall apartments, 523 Peachtree street.

The little fellow died after three days of intense suffering after he had been taken from his home in St. Charles, S. C., to Sumter, for treatment and later to a hospital in Florence, where two specialists, by use of the X-ray, located the coin lodged deep in the thorax and endeavored to remove it.

The child was playing with the coin at his home when he looked up at his mother and announced that he had swallowed a nickel.

The family physician was summoned and advised the removal to Sumter for the X-ray examination.

The Rev. Mr. Hammond founded the Pryor Street Presbyterian church of Atlanta, and was its pastor for thirteen years. Mrs. Hammond has a sister and brother living in Atlanta, Miss Birdie Rogers, and G. C. Rogers, of Rogers & Harwell.

Principal in Congressional Lobby Probe Operated in Atlanta Many Years Ago

David Lamar, the Wall street broker who testified before the senate lobby probe committee in Washington Wednesday, giving the members a very entertaining and naive account of his masquerades as a congressman in order to influence high financiers, is, it appears, a well known character in Atlanta.

It is with mingled feelings of enjoyment and regret that local citizens recall him. Ten years ago Lamar made his debut in Atlanta as a promoter of glittering schemes to easy wealth.

A number of Atlantians were interested in him and his plans, for they say he was a genial fellow who had a way of enlisting one's sympathies and pocket-book and getting one to thank him for doing it.

While in Atlanta, according to these men, Lamar was interested in a plan to get control of all the street car advertising in the south, but later changed his intentions and organized an accident insurance company.

He was here for several years, going to Mobile after his departure and later opening an office in Wall street, New York.

NATIONAL GUARD CAN'T DISCUSS PENDING LAWS

Members Must Bridle Tongues on All Pending Military Legislation

As the result of a "muzzling" order issued by former Governor Brown on May 28, and promulgated by Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash, officers and members of the Georgia national guard are forbidden to discuss for publication any phase of pending military legislation.

This order was issued by Governor Brown following the criticisms directed by the labor unions toward the conduct of the militia during the Augusta street car strike last fall, and was designed to put a quietus on the agitation so far as the officers and members of the militia were concerned.

Just after the convention of the Georgia Federation of Labor, at which Governor Brown was severely criticised for his military policy and a demand was made upon the legislature to investigate the part played by the militia in the Augusta strike situation, several prominent national guard officers gave out interviews in which they defended the conduct of the troops on duty during the Augusta strike.

One of the officers most widely quoted was Major Claude C. Smith, of Atlanta, judge advocate general of the Georgia national guard and president of the National Guard Association of Georgia, in which a large majority of the officers have membership.

In a letter to Major Smith on May 28, Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash wrote as follows:

"The governor, as commander-in-chief of the national guard of Georgia, directs me to state that he deplores the publicity that has already been made concerning the attitude of labor unions versus the present riot laws, and that he considers it unwise and useless agitation to permit the publication of anything further on this question by any member of the national guard; and, as it savors of the national guard mixing in politics, he forbids it. Therefore, you will please accept notice and be governed accordingly."

Major Smith forwarded copies of the adjutant general's letter to the members of the National Guard association, and with one or two exceptions on the part of minor officials, the newspaper interviews stopped. Disobedience of the order will subject the offender to a courtmartial.

Adjutant General Nash stated Thursday morning that the order was issued because neither he nor Governor Brown thought it proper for the militia, as an organization, to take part in what appeared to be a political controversy.

"The department must stay out of politics as long as I am at its head," said General Nash. "If the interests of the militia are affected by pending legislation then officials can appear before the legislative committees and express their views. This, I think, is sufficient."

COMPLIMENTS FROM BLEASE TO BROWN

(By Associated Press.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 3.—It became known here last night that the governor of South aCrolina, just prior to Governor Brown, of Georgia, going out of office, returned to Atlanta the requisition papers asking for the delivery to the Georgia authorities of Moye C. Dowling, who was cashier of the defunct Citizens' bank. A number of indictments were awaiting trial against Dowling here.

It is understood that the papers were indorsed before being sent to Governor Brown. "Returned with my compliments."

M'CRORY OUTLINES PLAN FOR CHEAPER TEXT BOOKS

State Supervision of Printing as Done in Ontario, Is His Scheme

Representative McCrory, of Schley county, who proposes to lead a fight in the legislature for cheaper school books through a plan of state supervision of the printing of the texts, Thursday outlined briefly the steps taken by the Ontario educational authorities to bring about a reduction in school book costs to the people of the province.

It is this plan, altered to meet Georgia conditions, that Representative McCrory hopes eventually to try out here. He is certain the cost of school books to the people of the state, at least books of an elementary character, can be reduced in cost materially if printed under state supervision.

If the McCrory scheme is adopted the state superintendent of schools will be commissioned to appoint a school man of expert knowledge of printing and binding to supervise the undertaking, or the supervision of the scheme may be left to the direction of the state school board.

A committee of representative teachers doubtless will be named to assist with their advice and experience.

IN THE BEGINNING.

It is the plan of the advocates of school books reform to begin operation in Georgia with the elementary books such as primers, readers and arithmetics.

Following the report of the supervisors, tenders will be invited at once for the typesetting and electrotyping matter. When the plates are ready, advertisements will be placed for bids on the publication of the readers and books for a period of five or ten years. The specifications as to the size of the books, quality of paper, press work, binding and manufacture will be set forth and the contract for the binding, awarded to the lowest bidder.

Mr. McCrory declared Thursday that he did not expect to revolutionize the Georgia school book situation in a year or two. He would be satisfied, he said, if Georgia could undertake the print-

MORPHINE VICTIM SUES, ALLEGING HE WAS DUPED

G. W. Almand Asks Court to Get Back Deeds to American Investment and Loan Co.

G. W. Almand, formerly a well known Atlantian, brought two remarkable suits in the superior court Thursday morning against the American Investment and Loan company, which has offices in the Hillyer building.

Almand brought suits to recover deeds to property and purchase money which he alleges that the vice president and one of the agents of the company secured from him while he was under the influence of morphine, "when his will was gone, and while they were masters of his will."

Almand asserts that he is fifty-nine years of age, and for the past six years has been a sufferer from "creeping paralysis." During that time he was under the care of sixteen doctors, he says, and when they failed to help him he commenced using opiates to alleviate the torture of the disease from which he was a sufferer.

Morphine became a habit, he asserts, and he has been taking a 2 1-2-grain dose of the drug six times every day, he says.

TRIED TO RESCIND ACTS.

"Time and time again," the suit says, "petitioner, when temporarily out from under the influence of the drug, would try to rescind any transactions with defendants, but each time would lapse into a comatose state, and day by day he would dream, unable to take any definite action."

In one of the suits Almand alleges that on May 10, 1912, E. S. Vickery and G. B. Cobb, knowing that he was not mentally responsible because he was under the influence of morphine, induced him to give a warranty deed for the property at 251-253 Glenn street, his home place, in exchange for $90 cash and 124 shares of stock in the investment company at a price of $15 a share. The purchasers were to assume a mortgage of $1,800 on the place.

In addition, they executed their individual agreements to sell the shares of stock should he wish to dispose of them, he alleges.

Almand says that he has found the stock to be practically worthless, and that he would never have made the deal had he been in his right mind.

In the second suit he alleges that on May 19, while in the office of the investment company, he became unconscious from the influence of morphine.

ABDUCTION ALLEGED.

The following day, between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, he alleges, Cook and Vickery came to his house for him in an automobile, and over the protest of members of his family induced him to ride down to their office with them.

How certain property deeds and a purchase money note for $2,000 got into his pocket that day, he says, he does not remember, nor does he have more than a very vague recollection of the occurrences during the day.

However, he alleges he since has found the property deeds, and the purchase money notes to be in the hands of the company, which will not relinquish them.

"WORTHLESS STOCK."

They are held there, he says, as security for a note for $1,500 given by him in payment for shares of practically worthless stock in the company.

He alleges that he does not remember signing the note, but says that the signature is genuine.

A temporary order has been issued by Judge John T. Pendleton, restraining the defendants from altering the status of the property which the plaintiff claims, until the issue can be heard.

MRS. FLANDERS WILL NOT BE TRIED FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

The Three-Year-Old Murder Charge Against Her Will Be Nolle Prossed on State's Motion at Swainsboro July 14

DR. M'NAUGHTON UNDER DEATH SENTENCE FOR IT

Effect of Latest Development on Long-Delayed Penalty Hanging Over Physician Is to Be Conjectured

Mrs. Mattie Flanders, indicted in June, 1910, with Dr. W. J. McNaughton for the alleged murder of her husband, Fred Flanders, will never come to trial on the indictment.

The Journal has learned from an authoritative source that when the famous case is called in the Emanuel county superior court on July 14 that a motion will be made to nolle prosse it by the state, and in this simple manner one of the state's most famous criminal cases will be cleared on the court records.

To nolle prosse a case means to dismiss it.

The expected action of the state in dismissing the case against Mrs. Flanders will occasion much speculation as to its probable effect on the case of Dr. W. J. McNaughton, convicted of the murder of Fred Flanders and several times sentenced to death, but always saved by executive clemency as the hour of execution approached.

SAVED BY GOVERNOR.

It has often been said that the attitude of Governor Brown, who twice stayed execution of the physician, towards the case has been that under the evidence if Dr. McNaughton is guilty, so too was Mrs. Flanders, and accordingly the former chief executive stayed Dr. McNaughton's execution pending the trial of the woman, who was indicted with him. Governor Brown, however, never gave his reasons for staying the execution.

As a result the question arises, what will Governor Slaton do with the McNaughton case when the state gives up its attempt to convict Mrs. Flanders for the same crime?

Fred Flanders died on June 4, 1910, and a short time later Mrs. Flanders and her husband's physician, Dr. W. J. McNaughton, were indicted jointly, charged with causing his death by arsenic poisoning.

DR. MCNAUGHTON'S FIGHT.

Dr. McNaughton was brought to trial before Judge B. T. Rawlings, of the middle circuit, who on the 14th of this month will hear the prosecution's motion to nolle prosse the case against Mrs. Flanders. Dr. McNaughton was convicted. He appealed to the state supreme court, which affirmed the decision of the superior court.

He managed to get a hearing of the case before the circuit court of the United States, only to be refused to interfere with the decision of the state court. He then appealed to the supreme court of the United States, only to be defeated again. Then he made an extraordinary motion for a new trial, which was lost before the state supreme court. He then was resentenced, but was saved by the governor.

MRS. FLANDERS' CASE.

During the litigation in the McNaughton case, the issue against Mrs. Flanders was repeatedly placed on the calendar of the Emanuel superior court, but it never was brought to trial.

Now, more than three years from the date of her husband's death, the case against her is about to be dropped.

Reuben R. Arnold, who assisted the state's attorneys in the prosecution of McNaughton, having been retained by the family of the dead man, has also been counsel for the prosecution in the companion case against Mrs. Flanders.

He refused Thursday to discuss the report that the case is to be nolle prossed, but admitted to a Journal reporter that he does not intend to go to Emanuel county on July 14, when the case will be called.

Mrs. Flanders had engaged a number of prominent attorneys to defend her.

PLEAS FOR CONSERVATION HEARD BY PROGRESSIVES

Party Leaders Also Discuss "Social and Industrial Justice" Problems

(By Associated Press.)

NEWPORT, R. I., July 3.—"Conservation" and "social and industrial justice" called by the party leaders "by-products of progressivism," were discussed at the closing sessions today of the Progressive National conference.

The former topic occupied the forenoon and the latter the afternoon meeting. Among the speakers were Gifford Pinchot, former chief of the bureau of forestry, Herbert Knox Smith, former commissioner of corporations, and Oscar S. Straus of New York.

"The conservation," Mr. Pinchot said, "lies at the foot of every material human problem, for it is the problem of shelter and clothes, which are nothing but natural resources prepared for the use of men.

"The trust or monopoly question is a conservation question pure and simple. Monopoly is the control of natural resources or natural advantages. Out of the handling of natural resources necessary to make them available for human use arises all the labor questions and, indirectly, all other questions of social and industrial justice."

Mr. Smith said that natural resources were one of the central issues in the Progressive advance.

BRAVERY OF ENGINE ROOM CREW SAVES BATTLESHIP

Valve Bonnet on Battleship Louisiana Blows Off and Floods Engine Room

(By Associated Press.)

NEWPORT, R. I., July 3.—Bravery of the engine room crew of the battleship Louisiana helped the vessel out of a dangerous predicament yesterday, when a valve bonnet blew off, flooding the starboard engine room. Incidentally the accident gave Captain Templin M. Potts, who yesterday was dismissed by the naval "plucking board" and retires tomorrow, a memorable experience at the close of his service.

The rush of water through the passage opened by the displacement of the bonnet carried men off their feet, and forced them against the machinery, but they stuck to their work.

Captain Potts sounded the call for collision drill, bringing men to quarters, and automatically closing watertight doors. A collision mat was put overboard, mattresses and blankets were brought into use and waste was jammed into the hole, but to no avail. Finally the pump began gaining on the water and the battling engine room force was able to cram into the hole a waste dam. This was lacked securely and the flow of the threatening water was stopped.

When the accident occurred the battleship was without steam, only one boiler being in use for minor purposes while the engines were being overhauled. As a result, tugs had to be called upto to tow the Louisiana to a position well inshore. So close was the battleship to the beach that it was reported that she had been run upon the sand.

Through the efforts of a diver a new bonnet was placed on the auxiliary overboard discharge valve, through which the water had rushed, the engines were started, and the battleship steamed back to her station without help.

MACON, Ga., July 3.—Jesse C. Harris, a Macon attorney, was acquitted this morning of a charge of perjury brought against him last fall by the grand jury in connection with the county primary. VET IN BLUE EXCHANGES HIS UNIFORM WITH VET IN GRAY

Northern Veteran From Oregon and Confederate From New Orleans Become Fast Comrades—Many Stories of Veterans at Gettysburg

(By Associated Press.)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 3.—There are as many stories floating about Gettysburg as there are veterans. Some of them sound strange and improbable. Here is one which was told today by A. T. Dice, vice president of the Reading railway:

Once upon a time there was a veteran in gray and a veteran in blue. They came to Gettysburg and in the course of events and visits to hotels they happened to meet. They looked over the sights of Gettysburg and the monuments of the field. But they found they must part. The one in blue lived in Oregon; the one in gray in New Orleans. They went weeping together to their station and passed by train after train, deferring the parting that must come.

But yesterday the two finally decided that the time for parting had really come. The one from Oregon couldn't figure how to reach home via New Orleans, and his gray comrade while willing to see the west, did not have the money for a ticket.

They lined up on the platform as their trains stood waiting, and there before the crowd they slowly stripped off their uniforms and exchanged them there while the curious flocked to see them.

The camp is full of unexpected meetings. Every day brings forth reunions between men who have not seen one another for many years. Many are commonplace, but some are extraordinary. For instance, here is one:

INCIDENT ABOUT ATLANTA.

I. D. Munnes, of Erie county, Pennsylvania, a soldier in the 111th Pennsylvania, was captured by the Confederates at Peachtree reek, Georgia, when he was one of Sherman's army on the celebrated march to the sea. He was being conveyed to the rear by a Confederate soldier when the Union batteries opened fire upon the party among whom he was a prisoner. The man who was guarding Munnes was hit and fell, knocking Munnes down and lying on top of him. Seeing his chance of escape he lay very still under the unconscious Confederate, while the battle raged around them. That night he slipped from under the body and escaped to the Union lines.

"I thought that fellow was dead," said Munnes, "but I saw him today. Poor fellow, his mind's bad and he did not recognize me, but I was sure of him. I couldn't even get his name, but I'm going over later to the Georgia camp and try to find out who he is."

MANY HAVE CRUTCHES BEHIND.

One of the most interesting places in camp I sthe lost and found bureau, located under the big tent.

There are at least a hundred crutches piled up in the bureau, with only a dozen or so applicants for them. Those who come to redeem the lost crutches seldom can recognize them and most of them go away with somebody's else.

There is one wooden leg also unclaimed. It is believed that an old soldier, lying under the tree, had unbuckled his stump for comfort and had then been overcome by the heat and carried to a hospital.

Several sets of false teeth have been found and are awaiting identification. A Vermont veteran came in yesterday, asking for his teeth, which he had dropped from his pocket after he had removed them. He looked over the collection, but could not identify any set as his.

Three governors arrived in a bunch late yesterday. They were Haines, of Maine; Fletcher, of Vermont, and Felker, of New Hampshire. Each was accompanied by members of his staff. This makes a total of eighteen governors now on the grounds. They came to participate in the governor's day exercises in the big tent this afternoon.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do.

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice and I shall recommend it as long as I live. Before I took the Compound I was always sickly and now I have not had medicine from a doctor for years. You may publish my letter."—Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

Such alarming symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

See complete rules on this page.

16 MORE DAYS TO WIN $1,000!

Now that the closing date for sale of Answer Books, Catalogues and extra pictures is at hand the Campaign Headquarters is the busiest place on Forsyth street. The contestants are taking inventory and that inventory shows missing pictures here and there, or pictures torn or soiled so much that they do not care to use them. And we hope they will continue to come in that way all week and give us a chance to properly take care of the rush that always comes in the last week of a campaign of this kind.

Another class of business that is coming in this week is the "hold backs," or those who have held back right along, declaring that they would like to enter but did not think they were smart enough to win in a campaign of this kind. In talking to these people we find they are just as bright as the average person in the campaign, but lack the confidence in their own ability. If there are any other Journal readers counting themselves out of a chance on that $7,000 for the same reason we hope they will arouse up and get that foolish notion out of their heads, for while they hold out their neighbor next door is working hard on a list of titles, and when the prize winning list is published their name will more than likely be in that list.

Don't sit back and let the other fellow get all the prizes, but read, study and get a Book and Catalogue for yourself. Get the pictures and the catalogue now and you will be surprised to see how easy it is to select the correct titles.

Use the coupons in ordering.

Booklovers, Important Notice!

Submit your sets of Answers right. If you use an Answer Book, or if you use only pictures and coupons. Observe the following Directions.

Those Who Have Answer Books

It is not necessary to retain number at top of picture, but it is all right to do so.

Be sure your name and address is written on each page, so that if a page should fall out while checking, it could be identified and replaced.

Wrap up the Answer Book carefully and paste on the outside of the package the address blank which will be printed in The Journal on Sunday, July 13th, and thereafter until Saturday, July 19th.

Those Who Do Not Use Answer Book

Cut the pictures out along the dotted lines.

You must use a separate picture and coupon for each answer you submit., Keep the like pictures together. If you have made three answers to picture No. 1, start your set with the three copies of picture No. 1. If you have made four answers to picture No. 2, have these four copies of picture No. 2 come next. And so on for all the pictures.

Fasten your set together at the top in some way—any way you please. Run a string through the tops of the pictures, paste the tops of the pictures together, or fasten them in any other way you choose.

Lay your set out flat and wrap it flat. Do not fold or roll it. Better put a piece of cardboard along one side of the set to hold it flat.

Wrap the set carefully and paste on the outside of the package the address blank that will be printed in The Journal Sunday, July 13th, and thereafter until Saturday, July 19th.

You can write your answers to the pictures in pen, pencil, by typewriter, or in any other way you please.

It is not Too Late to Enter. More than three weeks will elapse before any sets can be filed. After Saturday July 12th no further supplies will be sold. RECORD HEAT WAVE HAS ATLANTA IN ITS GRASP

No Let-Up in Continued Heat in Sight—Prolonged Scorcher Equalled but Once Before

Atlanta continues in the grip of a heat wave such as a summer in this city seldom brings. For sixteen days the town has sweltered. Although several times the mercury has stopped just short of the ninety mark during that time, the average temperature has ranged between ninety and ninety-five.

Such a heat wave in Atlanta has been surpassed but once in the history of the city. From June 25 to July 11, 1902, the mercury reached a maximum mark every day above ninety degrees. This is the record for continued heat here.

During that time the highest temperature was 95. Yet twice during the present heat wave the mercury has stopped at 96, so that in the aggregate the two heat waves are about on a par.

On Wednesday the highest temperature was 8 degrees. The lowest registered Wednesday night was 52, but at the crack o' day Thursday it began to rise. By noon Thursday the high mark of Wednesday had been totpped and it appeared that 90 degrees would be reached by 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Von Herrmann's official forecast was thunder showers Thursday night or Friday.

Clouds filtered across the city at intervals Thursday, lessening in some degree the oppressiveness.

Since the heat wave first started four prostrations have been reported. Two happened Wednesday, despite the fact that the day was not a record breaker. J. E. Bulce, of West Point, Ga., was stricken at Broad and Alabama streets at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and B. E. Franksley, of Lula, Ga., was prostrated at 5 o'clock while walking along Mitchell street near Whitehall. Both were taken to the Grady hospital, not recovering until some hours later.

Mr. Von Herrmann held out no hope Thursday morning of a cessation in the heat. On the contrary, he predicted that it would continue for a week or two at least.

BOARD OF HEALTH WILL ELECT THREE OFFICERS

Health Officer, Chemist and Sanitary Chief Are to Be Chosen Friday

The Atlanta board of health will meet at 12 o'clock Friday, July 4, to elect a health officer, a city chemist and bacteriologist, and a chief of the sanitary department.

The present officers in all probability will be re-elected unanimously and without opposition. That is, Dr. W. P. Kendrick as health officer, Dr. Claude Smith as chemist and bacteriologist, and John Dethe as sanitary chief.

Each of these has served the city for years, and served efficiently, and even if they had opposition there probably would be no disposition or willingness on the part of the board of health to turn them out.

Their terms of office are two years each.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION BILL IS INTRODUCED

Senator J. L. Sweat, of the Fifth, Sends Measure to Upper House

Stripped of the drastic features which caused its defeat in the legislature three years ago, a compulsory education bill, said to meet with the approval of organizations working to better school conditions in the senate, was sent to the upper house Thursday by J. L. Sweat, of the Fifth district.

The bill, despite the fact that it is without stringent provisions requiring school attendance, doubtless will meet with strong opposition in the senate.

Senator Sweat declared that he had been urged to introduce a compulsory education bill and he had examined the ground carefully before presenting this measure. He said the bill did not contain the provisions which caused opposition to the scheme three years ago.

The measure provides compulsory attendance for not less than twelve weeks out of each month for children between the ages of eight and twelve years, and attendance also is demanded of children more than twelve and less than fourteen who are not actually at work.

However, the last provision does not apply to children who have completed the fourth grade of the public schools or children who have an English education who are required to work for their support.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor for parents or guardians of children willfully to violate its provisions. The penalty for the first violation is a fine of $20, and a fine of $50 is fixed for the second and subsequent offenses. The money collected in fines is to go to the school fund.

'CUE AT BATTLE HILL FOR FORMER PATIENTS

Sanitarium to Entertain July 4, All Former Patients Are Invited to Attend

The Battle Hill tuberculosis sanitarium will give a barbecue on Friday, July 4, to the discharged patients, and a large crowd is expected.

The sanitarium discharges patients for various reasons. Some are cured, some are sufficiently improved to take care of themselves others leave on account of homesickness, and still others are sent away because they will not submit to the sanitarium discipline.

It is the aim of the sanitarium officials to keep track of these former patients as far as possible, and the barbecue is given in the hope of bringing them together again.

A barbecue served to the mayor and general council last year showed that the sanitarium can deliver the goods in this line, as well as in treating tuberculosis.

Dr. Merritt, the superintendent, urges all former patients to attend. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock.

LittleGray Tabby Cat Takes Street Car Ride Of Wild Adventures

A little gray tabby cat, which had passed the greater part of its peaceful days in the quietude of some well-regulated south side home, started on a tour of investigation late Tuesday afternoon, and ended the first stage of her journey on the life guard of one of the big South Pryor-West Peachtree cars.

The ride to town passed unnoticed, and the conductor failed to collect her fare, but when the car stopped in front of the Candler building to take on the regular home-going crowd some overinquisitive newsie espied Miss Puss from the sidewalk and immediately called the attention of bystanders to her secure and sheltered perch.

The conductor, being notified, attempted to put her off for refusing to come forth with the aforesaid fare, but was baffled when Tabby immediately regained her seat upon his return to the rear platform.

The car started when Pussie decided to finish the rest of her tour on foot, and accordingly dismounted with all the ease and precision of the most practiced strap-hanger and started at express speed across the street to Stoddard's corner, when one of the newsies tried to catch her.

Being unused to the ways and means of the downtown district, Puss mistook the big plate glass window in Stoddard's for her own front door, and, with a dive that would have caused Miss Ideal to turn green with envy, she landed from the edge of the sidewalk about midways to the top of the glass and immediately fell, an ignominious heap, to the ground, but before her startled audience could fully recover from their amazement she bethought herself of another engagement and disappeared down James street in the direction of the new Ansley hotel.

MANUFACTURERS TO PLAN FOR PERMANENT EXHIBIT

Dinner Thursday Night at Hotel Ansley Will Be Largely Attended

It is expected that practically every manufacturing enterprise in Atlanta will be represented at the dinner which the chamber of commerce will give Thursday night at the Hotel Ansley for the purpose of formulating definite plans for a permanent manufacturers' exhibit.

A tentative plan will be submitted by the manufacturers' committee, of which Brooks Morgan is chairman, and there will be a few brief speeches followed by a general discussion.

Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber, will preside, and the dinner will be informal, guests being permitted to wear business suits.

GEORGE L. BELL, JR., IS ADMITTED TO STATE BAR

Graduate of Year From High School Now Full Fledged Attorney

Graduated but a year ago from the Boys' High school of this city, George L. Bell, Jr., Thursday morning was admitted to the Georgia bar, and is now entitled to practice his profession as a full-fledged attorney.

In all probability he is the youngest lawyer in the state. By completing in one year's time the work which is ordinarily embodied in a two-year course at law school he was enabled to stand the examinations early in June. He was one of seven applicants out of twelve who took them that passed.

Mr. Bell is a son of Judge George L. Bell, judge of the superior court, and a brother of Clarence Bell, of the Atlanta law firm of Bell & Ellis. He comes of a family which has played a leading part in the legal history of Georgia and the south.

Following his graduation from high school in June, 1912, he at once took up his legal studies. The past year he was a member of the junior class of the Atlanta Law school, while at the same time he did such additional work as would qualify him for the examinations stood by the members of the senior class.

He likely will attend the Atlanta law school for another year in order to obtain a more complete knowledge of his profession. At present he is in the office of Bell & Ellis, following his admittance to the bar before the superior court Thursday morning.

He, together with C. T. Brackett, P. B. D'Orr and Thomas A. Perry, Jr., was sworn in before Judge W. D. Ellis by Deputy Clerk of the Superior Court Thomas A. Jeffers.

Although he has not yet reached his majority, Mr. Bell is a young man of keen intelligence and is well versed in his profession. He has a wide circle of friends in Atlanta who congratulate him on his success so far and predict great things for him in the future.

CONFIRMS CLAIM LAMAR DREW PROBE RESOLUTION

Henry B. Martin Testifies in Lobby Probe—Silent About "Anti-Trust League"

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Confirmation of David Lamar's claim that it was he who drew the congressional resolution under which the Stanley committee investigated the United States Steel corporation was given to the senate lobby committee today by Henry B. Martin, head of a so-called "anti-trust league."

Martin's testimony, less gripping and less startling than Lamar's yesterday, when the latter blandly told of confidential relations with Wall street leaders and his impersonations of congressmen, was corroboratory and supplementary to Lamar's on several points.

He testified that after Lamar drew the steel trust investigation resolution, he, Martin, induced Representative Stanley, of Kentucky, to introduce it. He did not tell Stanley that Lamar was its author, but did not try to suppress the fact. He disclaimed knowing that Lamar had used the resolution before introduction in dealings with financiers, and protested he knew nothing of Lamar's telephone impersonations.

Persistent questioning by the senators failed to make Martin divulge what the "anti-trust league" was or who composed it. He declined to give names of members there or tell of the disposition of thousands of dollars he said it had spent.

Before Martin was called, Lewis Cass Ledyard, attorney for J. P. Morgan & Co., who had testified yesterday as to Lamar drawing the steel trust resolution, resumed the stand for a moment to testify that his information on that point came from Lamar and Lauterbach.

Senator Pomerene gave Martin a lively examination in an effort to disclose what the "anti-trust league" was and who composed it. Martin testified that M. L. Lockwood, of Oklahoma, was originally its president; he was secretary, Cotter T. Bride, of this city, was treasurer, and Herman Schulteis, also of Washington, was counsel. At one time the "league" depended on Attorney General Monet B. of Ohio, for legal advice, he said.

WITHHOLDS MEMBERS' NAMES.

Martin declined to give names of the league's members because they would suffer "the anger of the great trusts, who would ruin, blacklist them and secure their discharge from employment."

Martin also declined to disclose the expenditure of about $50,000 by the league on the same grounds.

Among the legislative committee of the league, he said, were himself, Lockwood, Schulteis, Monett, Bride and W. B. Fleming, of Kentucky. He claimed he had presented to the secretary of the navy evidences of frauds in armor plate contracts, had given information to other government officials regarding violations of law by the "railroad trust, coal trust, steel trust, harvester trust and elevator trust," at a cost of more than $100,000.

DREW MANY BILLS.

He claimed to have drawn many bills for introduction in congress, had helped prepare for an investigation of the "armor trust," and was "very active" in the preparation of resolutions for the money trust and steel trust investigations.

Further questioning brought out that Lamar, in 1909, when the Wickersham railroad law amendments were before congress, had supplied arguments and information which had led to the striking out of the sections to immunize railroads from prosecution.

"Did Lamar prepare the draft of the resolution for the investigation of the steel trust?" demanded Senator Cummins.

"It is my recollection that I asked him to prepare it," said Martin. He added that he had no specific arrangement with any member of congress for its introduction.

"This resolution was used in New York as a basis for an attempted reconciliation between Edward Lauterbach and the Morgan firm," said Senator Cummins.

Martin insisted he knew nothing of that.

PRESENTED AS AGREED.

Martin testified that the resolution was introduced in the house in practically the form he and Lamar agreed upon.

"Did you tell Representative Stanley, who introduced the resolution, that Lamar had prepared it?"

"I don't think so."

"Did you try to suppress that fact?"

"Not in the least."

Martin testified he had worked for the "money trust" investigation, had conferences with Lamar, who favored it, but he had nothing to do with drawing the investigation resolution.

MARTIN ON LOBBIES.

The committee wanted to know what Martin knew about lobbies in Washington.

He declared that when Chairman Lovett, of the Union Pacific board, and Paul D. Cravath, of counsel, had been on the department of justice to discuss the Union Pacific dissolution with Attorney General McReynolds, they had "lobbied" the department.

A. C. Dickey, of the Carnegie Steel company, Vice President Johnson, of the Bethlehem Steel company, and Vice President Petrie, of the Middlevale Steel company had been in Washington in March lobbying for armor plate contracts, Martin said.

"An active part of that lobby is the navy league," he added.

J. P. Morgan, Jr., and Herbert Satterlee, of Morgan & Co., he named as interested in the navy league.

"The result of their continued lobbying has resulted in the United States buying hundreds of millions for obsolete ships and useless armor," said Martin.

At the conclusion of Martin's testimony the committee took a recess until 4:30 p. m.

WESTERN STATES CALL ON ATLANTA FOR ICE

Atlanta Ice and Coal Corporation Comes to Rescue of the Sufferers

Owing to the extremely mild winter in the east and middle west that cut down to an alarming degree the supply of natural ice, the states of Ohio, Kentucky and the southern part of Illinois are facing a famine of the cooling commodity and have called on Atlanta for assistance.

Officials of the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation have gone to the rescue and put at the disposal of the suffering states their storage supply of between 75,000 and 100,000 tons of ice. Carloads of the massive blocks are being shipped to the cities in these states at an approximate freight rate of $5 per ton, which, however, is not to be considered in the face of the emergency.

The northern and middle western states count on about 40 per cent of their supply from natural ice that is cut in blocks during the cold weather and stored for summer use, and with that supply now exhausted and their factories unable to meet the demand, they have all turned to Atlanta.

Ice in some of the eastern cities is now selling at $1 per hundred pounds as against $4 a ton here in Atlanta.

ROME, Ga., July 3.—Arrangements are now being made to bring electricity into Rome from the Tallulah Falls plant of the Georgia Railway and Power company. The Georgia Railway and Power company has already erected a substation at Lindale, five miles from Rome, which cost $65,000, and arrangements are being made to complete the plant, which will cost, when finished, in the neighborhood of $200,000.

MOVIES AN AID IN CONTINENT SEARCH FOR KIDNAPED CHILD

Mother's Appeal and Photograph of the Missing Child Shown on Canvas and Leads Sleuths to Trail of Kidnaping Father

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 3.—The "movies" may be instrumental in restoring Olga Ellis, five years old, to the mother from whom she was taken in Revere, Mass., and brought to California.

For six months the police of Boston have sought John Ellis, of Revere, who is said to have left that city with his daughter after the court had awarded her to the care of her mother, Mrs. Harriet C. Ellis.

A school teacher of Berkley, Cal., became interested in the case and gave a picture of the child and the mother's address to a moving picture agency which showed it in California cities.

Mrs. Myrtle Palmer, housekeeper in a hotel here, saw the mother's appeal at a moving picture theater recently and recognized the little girl as one who had stayed at the hotel with her father for several weeks.

He had registered, she said, as D. Delisle, and had gone to Eureka, Cal.

Mrs. Palmer notified the police and search for the man and child has been instituted in Eureka.

BARNESVILLE ASKS FOR NEW COUNTY OF LAMAR

The people of Barnesville, Ga., and the surrounding country are stotrming the state legislature in efforts to secure the passage of a bill that will create the new county of Lamar from small pieces sliced off the three counties of Pike, Monroe and Upson.

They base their plea on the grounds that Barnesville, which would be the county seat of Lamar, is the largest totwn in the south without a court house, and that the community is one of the richest and most prosperous in the state.

Barnesville, states the petition, has a population of 4,000, which, added to that of the outlying parts of the proposed county, will make 15,000. The town does a business of $15,000,000 annually, it is claimed.

The campaign headquarters of the movement are located in the Kimball house and the leaders are stinting neither time nor money to boost their plan.

POWER CO. TAX RETURNS ARE RAISED $3,900,000

Comptroller General Compels Increase in Taxes of Georgia Rwy. and Power Co.

An increase of $3,900,000 over and above the original tax returns made by the Georgia Railway and Power company, of Atlanta, has been compelled from that company by Comptroller General W. A. Wright. As a result of the comptroller general's action the state of Georgia will receive $19,600 in additional taxes from the Georgia Railway and Power company and its subsidiary companies this year; the county of Fulton will get about $25,000 additional and the city of Atlanta will be about $22,500 richer.

The actual increase in the total returns of the power corporation for 1913 over 1912 is $3,679,103. Its returns for 1912 aggregated $12,005,497.

Early in the present year the big company submitted its tax returns to the comptroller general. They totaled $11,854,700. These returns were not satisfactory to the comptroller general, who sent them back to the company for a more detailed statement. Conferences between the comptroller general and officials of the company followed, with the result that the company was induced to raise its returns for 1913 to $15,884,700.

The increases for this year over last year were made on the parent corporation and two of its five subsidiary companies. The Georgia Railway and Power company proper was increased from $5,0,787 to $2,000,000, while the Georgia Railway and Power company, as the lessee of the Georgia Railway and Electric company (the Atlanta street car company) was raised from $9,600,000 to $10,800,000. The Atlanta Gas Light company was increased from $1,800,000 to $2,500,000.

No changes were made in the returns of the Atlanta Northern, $250,000; Carrollton Electric company, $19,200, and Decatur Electric company, $15,500.

The increase in the taxable value of the property of the Georgia Railway and Power company proper in the city of Atlanta is placed at $47,523; that of the Georgia Railway and Power company, lessee of the Georgia Railway and Electric company, $1,044,873, and of the Atlanta Gas Light company, $700,000.

WOULD GIVE GEORGIA FIFTEEN MORE SENATORS

Suggested Redistricting Plan Would Make District of Four Big Counties

Members of the house and senate, who are agreed that the time has arrived for a new arrangement of the counties of the state into senatorial districts, have prepared a tentative redistricting plan, which they are now discussing with the other members.

This plan proposes to make each of the four big city counties—Fulton, Chatham, Bibb and Richmond—a separate senatorial district. An effort will be made to have the legislature at its present session submit to the people a constitutional amendment providing for the redistricting of the state. The plan, which is under consideration, would increase the number of senatorial districts from forty-four to fifty-nine.

If it is adopted the district would be as follows:

First, Chatham; Second, Bryan, Liberty and McIntosh; Third, Wayne, Pierce and Appling; Fourth, Camden, Charlton and Echols; Fifth, Ware, Clinch and Echols; Sixth, Lowndes and Brooks; Seventh, Thomas and Colquitt; Eighth, Decatur and Grady; Ninth, Early, Miller and Baker; Tenth, Dougherty, Mitchell and Lee; Eleventh, Clay, Randolph and Calhoun; Twelfth, Stewart, Quitman and Webster; Thirteenth, Sumter and Terrell; Fourteenth, Crisp, Turner and Worth; Fifteenth, Tift, Irwin and Ben Hill; Sixteenth, Coffee and Berrien; Seventeenth, Jeff Davis, Telfair and Dodge; Eighteenth, Pulaski, Bleckley and Wilcox; Nineteenth, Laurens and Johnson; Twentieth, Washington and Jefferson; Twenty-first, Jones, Twiggs and Wilkinson; Twenty-second, Bibb; Twenty-third, Houston and Dooly; Twenty-fourth, Macon, Marion and Schley; Twenty-fifth, Muscogee and Chattahoochee; Twenty-sixth, Talbot, Taylor and Crawford; Twenty-seventh, Pike, Spalding and Upson; Twenty-eighth, Butts, Monroe and Jasper; Twenty-ninth, Baldwin, Hancock and Putnam; Thirtieth, Glascock, Taliaferro and Warren; Thirty-first, Greene, Morgan and Oconee; Thirty-second, Newton and Walton; Thirty-third, Clayton, Henry and Rockdale; Thirty-fourth, DeKalb and Gwinnett; Thirty-fifth, Fulton; Thirty-sixth, Douglas, Campbell and Fayette; Thirty-seventh, Coweta and Meriwether; Thirty-eighth, Troup and Harris; Thirty-ninth, Carroll and Heard; Fortieth, Harralson, Paulding and Polk; Forty-first Floyd and Chattooga; Forty-second, Cobb and Bartow; Forty-third, Gordon, Whitfield and Murray; Forty-fourth, Dade, Catoosa and Walker; Forty-fifth, Fannin, Gilmer and Pickens; Forty-sixth, Cherokee, Milton and Forsyth; Forty-seventh, Dawson, Lumpkin and White; Forty-eighth, Rabun, Union and Towns; Forty-ninth, Habersham, Franklin and Stephens; Fiftieth, Banks, Madison and Hart; Fifty-first, Hall and Jackson; Fifty-second, Clarke and Oglethorpe; Fifty-third, Elbert and Wilkes; Fifty-fourth, Columbia, Lincoln and McDuffie; Fifty-fifth, Richmond; Fifty-sixth, Burke and Emmanuel; Fifty-seventh, Montgomery, Toombs and Wheeler; Fifty-eighth, Bulloch and Tattnall; Fifty-ninth, Effingham, Jenkins and Screven.

BLUE SKY LAW HAS BEEN INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

Representative A. B. Greene Says His Measure Will Save $3,000,000 Annually

Representative A. B. Greene, of Houston, has introduced in the house the first "blue sky" bill of the present general assembly, which he declares, if passed, will save the state of Georgia between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 a year that is now annually going into the coffers of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingfords."

The bill which seeks to define the term "investment companies" includes every person, corporation, company, copartnership, or association whether incorporated or unincorporated, that deals in securities. Its most salient provision is for a license board composed of the secretary of state, the comptroller general and the attorney general of the state to act in the capacity of a board of examiners into the affairs of such companies and pass upon the validity of their schemes.

In the state bank examiner is vested the same power of jurisdiction over these corporations that he holds over the state banks and it is to him that a company must apply for permission to operate in Georgia.

The power to recommend the sale or rejection of any security is entirely in the hands of the examiner and the license board, who shall grant the proper permit, if in their opinion the proposition is a fair one. It is also within their power to revoke such license at any time if the securities are found not to be of a bona fide nature.

"My bill," said Mr. Greene, "is purely to protect investors who are yearly beaten out of hard earned dollars by 'wild cat' schemes. If these concerns are placed under the jurisdiction of the state bank examiner and their business methods subject to the watchful eye of the license board, many that have thrived on the unsuspecting for years past will be driven from the state. Their operations have grown to an alarming proportion in recent years and it is high time that a stop is put to the practice."

NEW COUNTY DEBATES WILL OPEN TUESDAY

House Committee Announces Dates for Hearing Arguments

If the initial plans of the house committee on constitutional amendments, headed by Shelby Myrick, of Chatham, are strictly adhered to, a very limited time will be given to its hearing of the several new county propositions.

The committee met for the first time Wednesday afternoon in the house of representatives and after formally organizing with Representative Edmondson, of Brooks, as clerk, came to a decision in reference to the hearing of new county arguments.

On next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Candler and Barrow county propositions will be heard from and on Thursday a hearing will be given the proposed counties of Evans and Hampton.

On account of the large attendance that is expected, the committee will hold these sessions in the house chamber. Each county proposition will be allowed an hour for arguments, thirty minutes for and the same length of time against.

The dates for other new county debates will be announced later.

Tillman to Sing

Next Sunday morning Charlie D. Tillman will lead the singing at the Second Baptist Bible school and also will sing several of his own compositions.

In addition to this it will be "Banner Day." The class from each of the six departments which won the banner for the month of June will have some part in the closing exercises which will be centered around "Indeyendence Day."

NEGRO MUSIC FESTIVAL OPENS THURSDAY NIGHT

Ticket Sale Shows That Many White People Will Hear Jubilee Singers

The colored people's Jubilee Music Festival, which opens Thursday evening at the auditorium, bids fair to repeat the success of their festival held last season.

The sale of tickets shows that interest is not confined to the negroes, but that many white people are going to hear the Jubilee Singers and other features of the program.

The Jubilee Singers will be supported by a chorus of 250 voices, and promise some of the finest characteristic negro melody ever heard in Atlanta.

The festival continues Friday afternoon and concludes Friday night.

45,930 BATHERS COUNTED AT PIEDMONT THUS FAR

Record to Go Far Ahead of Last Season—Life Guards Save 34

From May 22, the day Piedmont lake opened to the public, until June 20, 45,930 people went in bathing, according to the records kept by the bath house attendants.

At the beginning of the season Park Manager Carey equipped each bath house attendant with a little punch device, and each time an attendant has furnished a locker to a bather he has punched the register. In this way a very accurate record has been kept.

The women's register shows 10,620; the boys' register 10,793, and the men's register 24,517. These together make the total of 45,930.

Manager Carey considers this a marvelous record. He thinks it would compare favorably with the records of some of the big bathing beaches, if such a comparison could be made. It shows beyond question that the number of bathers is increasing by leaps and bounds, and demonstrates the popularity of bathing as a feature of public parks.

Last year the record was kept by means of a registration book, the bathers being asked to write their names as on a hotel register. At the end of the season the register showed a total of something over 25,000 names. Of course this was not complete, but even allowing a big margin for those who did not register, it is still evident that the 1913 record will show a big increase.

The life savers have kept complete records of the people they saved from drowning, putting down names and addresses. These records show a combined total of thirty-two men and two women.

ATLANTA AD MEN START $234 SAVINGS ACCOUNT

"Back From Baltimore" Banquet Held at Hotel Ansley Wednesday Night

The Atlanta Ad Men held a "Back from Baltimore" Banquet at the Hotel Ansley Wednesday night and decided that $234 saved from the expenses of the trip to the recent convention should be put in the savings bank as a nucleus for next year's convention fund of $5,000.

The individual ad men pay their own expenses to the annual conventions, and the club fund is used in boosting Atlanta.

S. C. Dobbs, advertising manager of the Coca-Cola company, made an address on "The Declaration of Principles by the Baltimore Convention." He called attention to the motto of "Truth" which the convention adopted, and said this is the end to which ad men everywhere are working.

The banquet was the first the ad men have held in the Hotel Ansley, and was one of the first banquets held in the new hotel, which opened last Monday evening.

CHICKEN THIEF GETS THREE FINE CLUCKERS

The wily chicken thief who robbed the coop of H. M. Arnold, of 104 Formwalt street, Wednesday night, is very likely dining off a stew at his Thursday dinner made from the finest breed of fowls in the country.

Mr. Arnold is somewhat of a chicken fancier and owns a great many prize winning birds. Wednesday ninght his coop was looted of three Buff Plymouth Rocks, all of a blooded variety. Now he is bemoaning the loss of fowls worth in the neighborhod of a hundred dollars.

THE THIRD NATIONAL BANK of Atlanta

Capital $1,000,000.00 Surplus $800,000.00

To the Members of the Georgia Senate and House, also the People residing in the old counties of Pike, Monroe and Upson and our friends throughout the State of Georgia

A prosperous and highly cultured community, rich in resources, is knocking at the door of the state legislature for the fourth time, asking and pleading for a chance to become one of Georgia's most prosperous counties. Now, just a little slice off of Pike, Monroe and Upson will give to the state of Georgia a county that will, in five years, be the pride not only of Georgia and the citizens of the old counties, but the entire nation—a county that the creators will always feel proud of the fact that they helped to "father" it.

You all know what an important part the "LAMAR" family of Georgia has played in its history, statesmanship and progress—now give the people of the PROPOSED county of "LAMAR," with county seat located at Barnesville, a chance to do the same.

Barnesville, a growing little city of more than four thousand people (the largest town in the South without a courthouse), annual business of over fifteen millions—the outside territory to come into the new county with a population of more than eleven thousand, making a total population of over fifteen thousand—makes it necessary for the people of the proposed new county of "LAMAR" to plead with their hands and hearts open to the Georgia legislature and the people remaining in the old counties, to be given a chance to develop—to do business for themselves, and build a county and community of which all the citizenship of the state will be pleased.

The proposed new county will contain about 193 square miles, about 90 taken from Pike, 85 from Monroe and 20 from Upson. This is asking only a little from each. Tax values in the new county between three and four million. The old counties will not be hurt. Don't you, Mr. Legislator, and the people remaining in the old counties, think that we have the merit—the wealth—the right to ask you to create the new county of "LAMAR?"

We come to you with our hearts and hands open and plead with you to help us.

Campaign headquarters of the proposed new county of "LAMAR," room 112 Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt.)

Questions for the Legislature.

Why is it that a school primer costs twenty-five cents in Georgia and only four cents in Ontario?

Why is it that a First reader costs twenty cents in Georgia and six cents in Ontario?

Why is it that a Second reader costs twenty-four cents in Georgia and nine cents in Ontario?

Why is it that a Third reader costs thirty cents in Georgia and fourteen cents in Ontario?

Why is it that a Fourth reader costs thirty-five cents in Georgia and sixteen cents in Ontario?

Why is it that an arithmetic costs forty cents in Georgia and ten cents in Ontario?

These questions are well worth the Legislature's investigation, for they involve both the business and the educational interests of the State. The excess of school book prices in Georgia over those in Ontario is paid out of the incomes of thousands of families, many of whom must pinch expenses to send their children to school. The series of texts we have mentioned costs a Georgian a dollar and seventy-five cents, and a Canadien, only fifty-nine cents—a difference of a dollar and sixteen cents on every set of books, or an excess of eleven hundred and sixty dollars on every thousand books that are bought.

Is there a valid reason why Georgia cannot reduce the cost of school books to its people as the Canadian province has done? If there is, let it be shown; but, if not, let the State take due measures to free its citizens from this enormous tribute to particular interests.

Certainly the public is entitled to know all the facts in this remarkable situation and to that end the McCrory resolution providing for a thorough inquiry by a joint committee of the House and the Senate should be passed and promptly carried into effect. The State's five-year contract for school books will soon expire. The patrons of our common schools should not be bound to pay apparently excessive prices for another five years, if there is a feasible plan of escape. Let all the facts and all the possibilities of this issue be brought to light.

Also it might be a good idea to put more elasticity in credit.

Permanent Registration.

Means for the permanent registration of qualified voters, as recommended by Governor Slaton in his inaugural address, should unquestionably be provided. When a citizen has once satisfied the law and has proved his qualification for suffrage, he should remain a registered voter, "unless disqualified for cause due to himself." On this point there is no reasonable difference of opinion; the Legislature can, and doubtless will, adopt such an amendment without controversy.

But it is equally apparent that any plan to change the registration period for new voters would be contrary to the spirit of the present law and contrary, too, to the best interest of the citizen. The requirement that a voter register six months in advance of the general election imposes no hardship and, when supplemented by a plan of permanent registration, it will occasion no inconvenience. The registration books are opened each autumn concurrently with the tax books, so that a citizen can register at the same time that he pays his taxes; and thus he has a full half year in which to meet the demands of the law. No fairer deal could be desired.

The purpose of the registration law, as everyone knows, is to guarantee honest primaries and protect the purity of the ballot, thereby giving full sway to the public will. In order that this may be accomplished, it is essential that there be ample opportunity for the purging of registration lists. But should the registration books be kept open until the primary was at hand, there would be no such opportunity and the law would become practically ineffectual.

Let the present law be so amended as to provide for permanent registration, for, that will add to its usefulness; but let nothing be done to weaken or destroy its vital principle of a pure ballot and popular rule.

We know a persistent salesman who wonders if it would be worth while to show St. Peter the latest card index system.

Georgia's Urgent Need Of Vital Statistics.

There are cheering indications that the present Legislature will perform the highly important, though long neglected, duty of establishing a State bureau of vital statistics. A bill to this end has been introduced by Senator O. H. Elkins, of the Fifteenth district. It has the united support of physicians and health authorities and the hearty indorsement of thoughtful public opinion. Its enactment will mean surer and speedier progress in campaigns against disease, a fairer measure of protection to the health and life of the people and a quickened development of Georgia's fertile resources.

In order that diseases may be successfully combated, their origin and extent must be known. Particularly is this true of such maladies as typhoid, malaria, pellagra and tuberculosis. A system of vital statistics, with its complete records of births, deaths and the causes of death, would furnish the exact information which health officials must have, if their work is to count for definite and enduring results. Without such knowledge we grope in the dark and whatever progress we may make will be that of a lucky chance rather than of an intelligent, dependable plan.

While the larger cities, supplied as they are with health inspectors and sanitary safeguards, might get along without a State bureau of vital statistics, the rural districts will remain virtually unprotected; and it is especially in their behalf that this bill should be enacted. Farmsteads and little villages are due the same measure of defense against disease as that enjoyed by the largest municipalities. But in order that this may be vouchsafed, in order that the State board of health and local authorities may know just how and where to proceed in their remedial and educational work, there must be a system of vital statistics on which to base well considered and effective plans.

Georgia is one of the very few States in all the Union that is without such a system and as a result it suffers in reputation abroad as well as in its material interests at home. An Idaho man who contemplated removing his family to a South Georgia county recently wrote the United States health office, asking for information as to the death rate and the health records of the community he had in mind. The official had to reply that since there was no provision in Georgia for the keeping of vital statistics, he was unable to furnish the facts desired. How many times that happens and how many desirable settlers we lose as a consequence, there is no reckoning. Certain it is, however, that so long as Georgia remains without the means for proving its natural healthfulness, it will be at a distinct disadvantage, and this as obviously true of the individual county of the State as a whole.

Senator Elkins' bill provides for a State registrar of vital statistics, under the direction of the State board of health, and also for local registrars in every city, town and militia district of the State. The measure is one that looks to the larger and steadier progress of public health movements, to the protection of every home and every citizen in the commonwealth and to the release and encouragement of new forces for the State's economic as well as human development. It is a measure, the need and value of which is recognized by everyone, and it should be passed without hesitation or delay.

Warm Weather Philosophy.

Philosopher that he is, Secretary of the Navy Daniels has conceived a new and simple remedy for the summer's excessive heat. "Do you not realize," says he, "that this is the finest possible weather for raising cotton, that on days and nights like these you can almost see the cotton growing and that it is the cotton export crop of this country which keeps the balance of trade in favor of America? Then, reflect upon these truths and keep cool."

There are thousands of good folk who pray, "Give us this day our daily bread," and then turn to complain of the very sun that is answering their petition. The Laplanders never perspire but they never catch the lushy fragrance of ripening corn fields. There are no sultry afternoons in Spitzbergen, nor are there any such treasures as striped watermelons or dawn-flushed peaches. The people of Franz Josef land have no need of soft drinks or electric fans but they have never seen the earth grow white with cotton that yields more than half a billion dollars at a single harvest.

Let us remember that these midsummer days and nights are feeding and clothing us and making our warm Southland a marvel of the world.

THE PHILIPPINES

XXI.—THE MOROS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

In many respects the Moro problem is the Indian problem all over again. Some of the fiercest campaigns have been waged against these Mohammedan Malays and to this day they are conquered but not subdued. At this very writing General Pershing is conducting a campaign against the Datto Amil of Julo. It is generally remarked of the Moro as it was of the Indian that the only good Moro is a dead one. The Moro is as ferocious, cruel and untamable as an Indian ever was, and immeasurably more fanatic. The Indian took great pleasure in scalping the palefaces but he did not think he had to do this for the benefit of his future place in the Happy Hunting Grounds. The Moro's firm belief is that the easiest way to get into paradise is to kill a Christian, and the more he slaughters the greater will be his heavenly reward.

• • •

In the 200 years that the Spaniards held the Philippines they never conquered the Moros. To quote the favorite expression of General Luke E. Wright, the second governor-general of the islands, "The Spaniards broke their teeth on the Moros." We have been more fortunate than this. A body of American soldiers governs each district. After several years of hard fighting the Moros realize that the American is master but this has not prevented a general uprising from one corner of the Sulu Seas to the other. There is no telling when the Moro country will be peaceful. Certainly it will not be as long as the United States government continues its present policy of maintaining an inadequate force of American troops. We will either have to adopt a sterner policy backed up by a military force or find a pacific way of handling them and so far no such way has been found.

There are approximately 600,000 Moros, the main tribes being the Mindanaos, the Jolos, the Samals, the Maguindanaos, the Yakans, the Kalibuganes, a mixed tribe of Moros and Subanos, and the Ilanos who live in few numbers along the sea coast of Malabang. Most of the Moros are land people but throughout the entire Sulu archipelago are to be found a people called the Bajuas, the sea gypsies.

• • •

Your typical Moro is a Malay with olive-brown complexion and straight black hair. In build and strength he is the superior of the Filipino. One of his peculiarities is the broadness of the foot and the widely separated toes. The Moro would not know what to do without his toes for he uses them to pick up objects, to climb trees and to manipulate rigging when operating sailing vessels.

• • •

The Moros have a thousand and one peculiarities and among them is the habit of filing and blackening the teeth. The teeth are filed at the gums and sometimes at the edges, apparently to give them an outward curve. This painful practice is begun by both boys and girls and continued for several years. The front teeth are filed with copper and are then supposed to be very pretty. Files of steel make cowardly attacks under the guise of friendship or to sneak up in the night or under cover like a slimy snake in the grass. No man leaves his house without being armed with a kris or a barong. The barong is a sort of sword with a blade from twelve to fourteen inches long the front and back oval shaped meeting at an acute angle at the point. The more people a kris or a barong has killed the higher is its marketable value. One pleasant performance of the Moro is to go "juramantado," meaning to run amuck with a bolo among an unsuspecting crowd and kill as many people as possible. They delight to do this with the Americans and the Christian Filipinos and have been known to kill eight and ten people at a time, and to withstand several bullets before giving up the ghost. The Moro who makes his exit in this spectacular and bloody manner is supposed to be rewarded with a good job around the heavenly throne.

• • •

While the Moro lives up to this part of his religion, he does not let the self-sacrifice tenets of the Koran weigh heavily upon his mind. This sacred book tells him to keep clean. So he takes a bath every day and then lets filth accumulate around him, inside and outside of his house. He is supposed to pray five hours a day but he scrapes along with an hour or less. He is very temperate in the use of intoxicants and narcotics but he delights in smuggling arms and opium from Borneo.

• • •

His principal articles of food are rice for which corn is sometimes substituted, fish, chickens, wild fruit and cocoanut oil. The natives are fond of chicken and eggs and most families raise poultry for the table. Pork is forbidden by the Mohammedan religion, and the use of venison or the flesh of the carabao, ox, or goat is limited. Fish is an important staple and a favorite dish. Fish is preserved by the simple process of splitting it open and laying it in the sun without being cleaned. It partially dries and partially rots. It smells to high Heaven but the Moro thinks it is fine food. The Moro also eats such vegetables as the sweet potato, pumpkins, which resemble American varieties, gabi, a sort of rhubarb, crude fish and all kinds of wild fruits such as the bananas and maanggoes

Both men and women dress simply. Not infrequently men will wear only a sarong or a cloth which is wrapped around the waist above the breech clout. When the Moro man is dressed up in his best bib and tucker, he wears a skin tight jacket and trousers, the latter being buttoned close to the ankle and full in the seat. The women usually wear a sarong about four feet wide and ten feet long which is wrapped around the body from the armpits down, the loose end being thrown over one shoulder. When they were dressed up for company or for an unusual event they wear a close fitting jacket and loose trousers. They frequently adorn their persons with rings and bracelets of brass and other metals. Only a few wealthy men or those of high rank wear sandals, and shoes are practically unknown to the entire race. The children as a rule wear nothing at all. For the head, both sexes wear a bright colored scarf which the men dress into a turban, although sometimes they wear a hat of rough straw. The hair is worn long by the men while the women bind their hair in more or less fantastic fashion.

The typical Moro house is a small timber or rattan structure raised on poles from three to ten feet above the ground and sometimes they are so built over the water. Some timbers are used in the construction and the roofs are of the nipa palm and the walls are of bamboo leaves sewed together. A few strips of bamboo serve for a floor. These structures are not substantial but they are practically waterproof, afford shelter from the sun and withstand the frequent earthquakes. These people never heard of chairs and tables.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

June 27.—To the ball park and sate with Mistress Margery, who did guess each play before it was made with more clairvoyant power than ever I saw in any save myself, and thence home with her in her petroleum-waggon. In the evening I did essay to make some verses, but could think of none that had not already been made by bards of an elder day. So for a walk, and saw where they do play at tennis by bright lights, and very good, too, and I mean to try it soon.

28.—Up and did on my linens, the first time this year, and so to Long Beach, and met upon the train Mistress Edith Rudderow, born Whitney, and she grown prettier than ever, which is no light praise. To Mistress Mary Hammond's who hath the newest, finest house I have been in since C. Schwab the steel merchant's, and we did have a fine luncheon and thence with J. Hammond to the tennis-court and beate him, poor wretch, and Will Deebe, too, and then all into the ocean and had a merry time with D. Taylor and Jane and then all to an inn for dinner and to the city again. Home upon an omnibuss, and I did marvell that man could be such beasts to crowd and push women in their efforts to ride upon the top, and was for beating one man but for his size, so I did glare at him, but he did seem unperturbed, the great hippopotamus.

29.—Up by times and to the court to play in a tourney and G. Mersereau trounced me two out of three setts, and I did not play bad neither, but could not prevail over his skill. And then his brother Joseph did beat me, too, but took me to an apothecary's for a beaker of milk, very gracious, methought. Home, and labouring all the afternoon, and came E. Newdick to dinner and we talked of the problems of the day.

Sir: The weather being so beautiful, it seems almost a pity to mention nomenclature. Still, if one were to speak of it, one might remark in an offhand manner that Mrs. Ritchie, late Lemon, has decided to sell gowns at 293 Regent street, London; that Yell, the tailor, in Hanover Square, and James Motion, the auctioneer, at 46 Southampton street, ought to exchange either names or trades, and that W. The tremendous popularity of that stirring idyl, "When That Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabam'," arouses in us not only the travel-yearn, but also the lucre-lust. Perhaps Mr. Berlin, the gifted, in a manner of being gifted, author of that song never really felt the longing to board a sound-bound train at midnight, but with the sincerity of the cabaret minnesingers we are not now concerned. The idea is that if some railroad wishes a zippy song written, bringing in all the charms of its roadbed, steel cars, dining car service and electric lights in berths, we can be approached. We submit a few sample titles:

FOURTH OF JULY

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

I wonder, son, if you know what America means.

Sometimes I fear you don't, from the papers and magazines you and all of us have to read. To believe the valiant muckrakers, we are a nation of ignorant Rubes, our foremost business men are all rascals, all public officials are grafters, all school teachers incompetent, and all apparently decent people are hypocrites waiting for a dark and rainy night so that they may slip into crime.

"Cussin'," as your grandfather used to say, "is mighty interestin' reading"; it is also the easiest stuff to write or orate.

It only takes a thimbleful of brains and a nickel's worth of beer to be able to tell what's the matter with the U. S. A., and why we are all on the toboggan slide to the Old Nick.

Permit me, hence, to point out to you a few items showing wherein your Uncle Sam has all other nations of earth "beat to a frazzle," to use the language of our ex-leader.

First, the United States is the one big country of Opportunity. Every man of initiative, pluck, and ability can prosper, barring, of course, such accidents as whisky, women, etc.

All they ask of you in these parts is "Can you make good?" They don't care whose son you are. There are some who deny this and curse the tyrant capital, and say the poor man has no show; which may be true in places like Paterson, N. J., and in West Virginia; but the beauty of it is that the trains run out of those localities every day, and there are plenty of chances in Tie Siding, Wyo., and the Red River Valley.

We have the ablest business men and the most wonderfully organized business concerns the world ever saw. And the workmen are better paid than in any land on earth.

We have more fun than any people, because our business is fun; other nations hate work, and have to quit it to enjoy themselves.

Compared to the millennium our public schools are pretty poor; compared to any other nation's they are the best ever.

Nowhere are women more highly esteemed and nowhere do they enjoy such personal freedom as here.

No nation pays so much attention to children; there are more child's books and magazines published in America than in all the rest of the world.

No fireclass nation is so free from the curse of a standing army and an incubus navy.

No people is so good natured.

No people is so optimistic.

No people is so sane and sound.

No people is so energetic and youthful spirited.

I do not say we could whip any nation, but I do say we would be the hardest nation to whip.

We have large and prominent faults and follies, and our society is some shy on real dukes and counts, but if you are just a plain, ordinary man, and are looking for a place to make an honest living, be respected and let alone, and give your children a good education, you may travel all around the green earth and not find a better place to settle and build a house than in these United States of America.

And if you find any one this Fourth of July who does not like this country, tell him to go to—Mexico.

The Journal's Letter Box

Editor The Journal:

With a bill pending before the Georgia legislature which seeks to make it compulsory upon the parent or guardian to send the young American to school for a sufficient time to at least learn to read and write, it is interesting to know how the ability to read and write was considered in the olden days across the sea in Merry England, the land from which we sprang. In England at one time a person who could read could not be punished for crime if it was his first offense. Blackstone said that this custom had its origin in the pious regard paid by Christian princes to the church in its infant state. 4 Com. 364. At first it was confined to those persons who were actually in the service of the church and had taken orders, but it was gradually extended until it comprehended all persons who could read, that being in those days of ignorance and superstition a mark of great learning, and the person enjoying this accomplishment was called a "clerk." The probable reason for this exemption being accorded to learned persons was their supposed beneficial influence upon the progress of the realm in civilization and religion, as much as to any sanctity with which the persons of the clergy were invested. It is curious to know how this plea was made and allowed. After the verdict was rendered of guilty the prisoner was asked by the court if he had anything to say why judgment should not be passed against him. The prisoner then prayed his clergy. This was generally performed on his bended knee. He was then handed a Psalm to read, and he read the first verse and was then taken without the bar of the court and branded in his hand. 1 Salk 61. The Psalm usually given for the prisoner to read was the 51st on account of the peculiar appropriateness of the first verse: "Have mercy upon me O God, according to Thy loving kindness. According unto the multitude of Thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions."

But Georgia saw no reason why a person should go unpunished for a crime he had committed, and it was early provided and now appears in Section 17 of the Criminal Code that "No person convicted of crime shall be allowed the benefit of clergy; and in all cases where the penalty of death is annexed to the crime the convict shall suffer that penalty."

Georgia did wisely in making this provision that there should be no benefit of clergy, but the modern thought dictates that there would be a benefit of humanity. Education should not free a person from punishment of crimes he has committed, but education should free a person from the desire to commit crime. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. That homely saying was true in the days of Bloody Mary and is still true in the times of Woodrow Wilson.

The young are the hope of the state and the seed corn of the future, and if the person does not see proper to give his child a chance which even a limited education will give him, the state should proceed to punish so irresponsible a citizen, and the person legislated be no benefit of clergy for him but should be a benefit for his child.

Some time ago I was riding in the country when I overtook a youth about ten years of age who was walking briskly in the direction I was traveling and enjoying himself chewing a huge quid of tobacco. Being attracted by his bright face after a few remarks I invited him to ride with me. In the course of our conversation I found that he had only been to school one month and could only read a few of the simplest words. I asked him if he did not want to go to school, and he replied, "Yes, sor, but pa says you go to school behind that plow."

I don't believe there are many pas like that in Georgia, but those few should be handled by the strong arm of the law just as effectually as his strong arm made his son "Go to school behind that plow."

A SMILE

"And you say that you are innocent of the charge of stealing a rooster from Mr. Jones?" asked an Arkansas judge of a meek looking prisoner.

"Yes, sir; and I can prove it."

"How can you prove it?"

"I can prove that I didn't steal Mr. Jones's rooster, judge, because I stole two hens from Mr. Graston the same night, and Jones lives five miles from Graston's.

"The proof is conclusive," said the judge. "Discharge

HOUSE AND SENATE TAKE RECESS UNTIL MONDAY

Courtesy Seats Asked for Representatives From Both New Counties

Members of the legislature showed their anxiety to get home for the Fourth of July, when the house convened on Thursday morning, by refusing unanimous consent for the reading of bills, and succeeded in obtaining an adjournment until next Monday after deliberations that lasted little more than an hour. It was the shortest session of the general assembly thus far.

The move to adjourn until July 7 was in concurrence with a resolution to that effect introduced in the senate by Mr. Stark, of the Thirty-third district, but the matter was not settled without considerable debate on the floor.

Representative Barry Wright, of Floyd, introduced an amendment to the senate resolution that the days of adjournment be counted as dies non and was championed by Mr. Fowler, of Gilmer, who declared the state should not be made to pay for the days on which no work was done. This was voted down, almost unanimously, however, and the house was declared adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Speaker Pro Tem McMichael, of Marion, called the speaker's attention to the fact that the committee on halls had experienced considerable difficulty in finding rooms for the different committees to meet. Ten years ago, he said, there had been plenty of space on the third floor, but that now these rooms were occupied by the several state departments. Arrangements have been made, though, whereby the house committees may use a part of these rooms for meetings in the afternoons.

At the opening of the session, Representative Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter, introduced a resolution providing for courtesy seats for Leo H. Browning and Douglas McArthur, of the two new counties, Bleckley and Wheeler respectively, and providing also for per diem and mileage. The resolution was referred to the committee on privileges of the floor.

Among the few bills that were introduced was one of the "jim crow" variety, general in its scope and more or less drastic in its nature. It was sent to the desk for its first reading by Mr. Moye, of Johnson, and Mr. Moss, of Cobb.

The bill provides that separate cars be put on all city and interurban street car lines, for the use of colored passengers, though the question of traffic warranting such additional service is left to the discretion of the railroad commission. Should this be the case, it is then incumbent on the company operating cars to placard parts of each car showing the seats reserved for white and colored passengers.

The time for such a law, if passed, to become effective is also left in the hands of the railroad commissioner.

Atlanta's Detectives Must Stop "Cussin'"

From this day forth no member of the city detective department will express his feelings with heated remarks —at least, if he wants to retain his job on the force.

Chief of Detectives Lanford put his foot down on "cussing" Thursday morning. He is determined to stop it among the detectives. He issued a verbal order aimed directly against the use of one very expressive, laconic word of four letters. If his oral instructions are not forceful enough, the chief said, he is going to make it a written order to be posted on the file. Then, he declared, if any city detective uses a "cuss" word he will suspend the offender.

A detective can make his remarks as cutting and vitriolic as he wants, says Chief Lanford, always providing he confines himself to words that would go in polite society.

The chief issued the order just after he had interrupted a general discussion in the detectives' office in which strong adjectives were prominent. He walked out of his private office and said:

"You've got to stop using this profanity. I don't want any more of it." Later he outlined his stand against this variety of forceful language. "It sounds bad," he said.

Brownson Howard's celebrated civil war drama, "Shenandoah," will be shown in a three-reel photo play at the Montgomery Friday, July 4th all day. This wonderful picture, aside from its educational value, abounds with thrills of daring recklessness and sensational battle scenes. The younger generation as well as the old, will derive a great treat in witnessing this moving picture production.—(Advt.)

LEWIS GREGG IS LATEST CANDIDATE FOR COUNCIL

At Least, He Is Being Urged to Run—Other Names Which Are Being Mentioned

In addition to the numerous prospective candidates for council and for the aldermanic board, whose names already have been published, several others have come out—or at least their friends are urging them to come out; and there are prospects that the primary this fall will be one of the liveliest on record, with perhaps a contest in every one of the ten wards in the city.

A. W. Farlinger, a capitalist and realty operator, is mentioned as a very probable candidate for council in the Fourth ward to succeed Councilman A. D. Thomson. As to whether Councilman Thomson runs for re-election cannot be said, since his mind is not made up. In the event he does not, he may be a candidate for alderman to succeed J. B. Everett, whose term expires and who is not eligible for re-election, having served the full continuous time allowed by the city charter. L. C. Green and R. E. George are also mentioned for council in the Fourth ward.

Another whose possible candidacy has aroused no little interest is Lewis Gregg, the cartoonist of the Atlanta Constitution, who is being urged to make the race for council from the Third ward. Mr. Gregg is a young man, is popular, and well known on account of his pictures.

W. Broadbent, a prominent Shriner and well known in the business world, is mentioned as a probable candidate for alderman in the Third ward to succeed Alderman James E. Warren, who has not yet made up his mind whether he will stand for re-election.

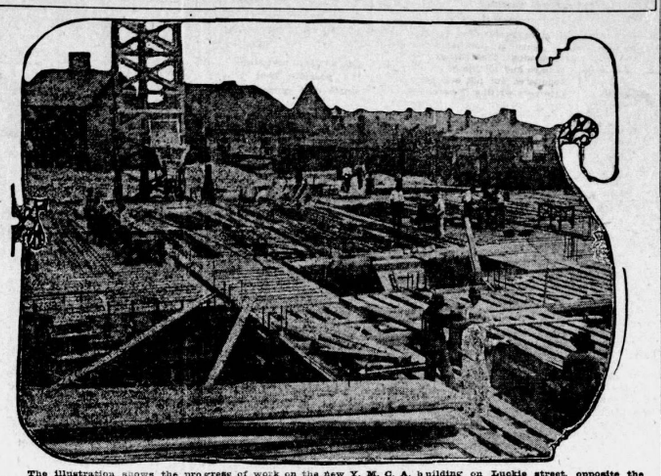
PROGRESS OF WORK ON NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING



The illustration shows the progress of work on the new Y. M. C. A. building on Luckie street, opposite the Tabernacle. The building will be ten stories and of reinforced concrete construction, costing, complete, $250,000. The feature of the building will be its adaptation to the needs of both men and boys. There will be no finer and more complete building of its kind in the country.

POLICE CHIEF TO PROBE VICE PROTECTION CHARGE

Beavers Stirred by Details Reported by Physician—Assigns Men to Report

Following the charges of a prominent Atlanta physician regarding vice conditions and alleged police protection in this city, Chief of Police Beavers despatched an officer to confer with this physician Thursday morning.

The officer will endeavor to obtain even more information than has been furnished the chief and will try to substantiate that already given. He will pay especial attention to the statement of the physician that he reported a disorderly house to the police and that the proprietors of it were "tipped off" by some officer.

Chief Beavers is concerned over this phase of the question. He admits that there must be something in the charges, as the source of his information is reputable.

"It is a grave charge," he declared Thursday morning. "I am satisfied that Atlanta's police department is as free of anything like giving protection to vice as any in the United States, yet it is entirely possible that there are some men in it who would 'graft.' If there are I want to know more than anyone else, for it is not fair for the department's reputation as a whole to suffer for what can be traced to a few individuals."

The alleged disorderly houses reported to the chief are being watched closely, but he said that no evidence against them had been obtained yet.

Sergeant L. S. Dobbs, who has been investigating the locker clubs to see if they had any members of the police department enrolled, has finished his work and reported to the chief that he was unable to find any police members. He said that there are a number of local fraternal organizations with police members, and that these orders have locker club attachments, but that so far as he could learn no policemen were in the habit of using them.

Chief Beavers declared that there was nothing wrong with an officer belonging to a fraternal order, provided he did not use his membership for anything other than fraternal purposes.

Chief of Detectives Lanford declared Thursday morning that he had taken steps to investigate the charges made by the physician that several of his men had been seen drinking in two downtown locker clubs.

Lad Dies Pleading That His Slayer Be Not Punished

"Don't let them whip Frank for cutting me," murmured fourteen-year-old James Edgar, a half-hour before he died Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the Grady hospital as a result of being accidentally stabbed by a playmate, Frank Barton, in front of his home, 31 Kennedy street, early Wednesday afternoon. It was almost his last request to his father, who was at his bedside.

Gritting his teeth to conceal the pain which his wound just over the heart caused, the lad repeatedly told doctors who were endeavoring to save his life that he had been wounded in play and that his youthful assailant had meant no "harm."

When young Edgar was brought to the hospital it was thought that he would live, because the wound was two inches removed from the heart. Although this organ was not touched by the knife blade, a large blood vessel near had been severed. This resulted in death.

The two boys had been playing in Edgar's home. Young Barton pulled a knife from his pocket and said he would show Edgar how to wield the weapon in a fight. They stepped outside and a minute later young Edgar was writhing on the ground in pain.

The Barton lad will not be arrested. All witnesses of the tragedy declare that it was an accident. Sobbing with grief he was brought to detective headquarters Wednesday afternoon. He told how he had unintentionally inflicted the wound on his compaion, and his statemen was borne out by other youths.

LEGISLATORS INVITED TO VISIT AUGUSTANS

Dr. William H. Doughty, dean of the State Medical college, and Boykin Wright, former representative from Richmond county, were visitors in the house Thursday morning for the purpose of inviting the general assembly to be the guests of Augusta some time during the session of the legislature.

Representative Olive of Richmond, also an Augusta, stated that the invitation, in the shape of a resolution, would be introduced in the house early next week.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 3.—Mr. E. F. Lovell, one of the best known business men in Savannah, is in a local hospital suffering from what may have been a slight attack of apoplexy. He was attacked yesterday morning shortly after getting down to business and his condition, while it shows improvement, is not satisfactory.

CITY HALL TO CLOSE FOR GLORIOUS FOURTH

Mayor Woodward Says He Will Spend Most of the Day at Work

All departments of the city government except those necessary for the public service, will take a holiday Friday, in honor of the Fourth of July.

Mayor Woodward issued an order to this effect Thursday morning, and while generally expected, it was none the less gratifying news to the city hall when posted on the bulletin boards beside the elevator door.

Asked how he would spend his own "Glorious Fourth," Mayor Woodward replied that he would spend it at work.

"I'll come to city hall to look over my mail, then I'll go to the state capitol to welcome the Georgia R. F. D. carriers, and after that I'll be in my private office the most of the day."

Mayor Woodward's friends say they rarely have known him to fail to do some work on holidays, even on the big ones like July Fourth and Christmas day.

As for the men in the various departments, they will spend theirs in various ways. Some will go to barbecues, some will go fishing, others to the ball game, and quite a number will spend most of the day attired in bathing suits.

Jailed Author-Poet Writes to Outside World

From out the great pile of cold stone and colder iron bars known as the Atlanta federal penitentiary has come to the world a message fraught with meaning not only for those shackled ones who will devour it most eagerly, but for him who walks in freedom through spaces broad and wide.

It is written by Julian Hawthorne, Register No. 4435, the author-poet who has made his sojourn in a jail an opportunity to cheer his fellow-prisoners with poems and articles of strength and wisdom.

Not an issue of the prison paper, Good Words, leaves the press without the stamp of Julian Hawthorne's work, and in the current number is one of his finest pieces of craftsmanship.

It is not to the jailed ones that he writes this time, but to those without, whose only difference from those within, he says, is that they have not yet been caught.

To him the penitentiary is but a smaller model of the great invisible jail which imprisons us all, the men without self-confessed "miserable sinners" who have so far escaped the sack-cloth which the prisoner wears and the men within the scape-goats of humanity who are teaching all the world a silent and terrible lesson.

BEARISH BUREAU REPORT CAUSED BREAK IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 9 to 12 Points Down From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 3.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points on a renewal of scattered covering but soon turned weak under with prices selling some 2 to 5 points net lower. There was probably realizing for over the government report, but prevailing bearishness of near months and there was some New Orleans selling of new crop positions. Weather news was considered generally favorable, except for higher temperatures in some of the Atlantic states, while the cables were about as due. The bulk of early business appeared to be in the way of evening up commitments.

After selling about 3 to 6 points net lower the market steadied on covering and was 7 to 3 points net higher when the government report was issued. The condition of 81.8 proved slightly above expectations and new crop months quickly broke to a net loss of about fifteen points.

After selling at a net loss of 10 to 13 points immediately after publication of the government crop report, prices rallied slightly on covering, but trading quited on a bulge of 7 to 9 points and subsequent reactions were irregular.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 points up, compared with the close of yesterday. Cables were slightly better than due but the weather map was fairly favorable and checked buying. Considerable rain fell in the cotton region overnight, especially in the eastern section, which has not been greeting any too much rain of late. The market soon after the early trading became cause of the nearness of the bureau reports. At the highest the trading months were 1 to 4 points over yesterday's close but by the end of the first half hour of business they were 2 points over to 1 point under.

The market showed very little change until toward 11 o'clock when the new crop months sold at a net rise of 6 to 8 points, showing that the trade was looking for bullish bureau reports. Immediately on the posting of the figures, showing an area planted of 35,622,000 acres and a condition on June 25, of 81.8, the market commenced to break and within a few minutes the new crop months were 17 to 19 points down from the levels ruling just before 11 o'clock. A considerable short selling passed this break and it appeared to be based on the condition report, although the figures of 81.8 were under the trade estimate of a bulging earlier in the week. Shorts took profits on the decline and soon prices were only half a point to 3 points under yesterday's close on the most active months. The old crops were hardly tinged in.

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: A bullish condition report on the eve of the government's condition report, which will be published this morning, was today, caused some covering, but the senate's threat to put a prohibitive legislation stood as a barrier to enterprise, and the cotton market was a dull affair. Thus far the new session in Washington has all tended to show a spirit of determination among the senators to make the Clarke amendment fatal to the future trading out of existence a part of the tariff law, though some economists assume that since such legislation is destructive and would very seriously injure the great industry on which the nation depends for the bread of its international trade balance on the right side of the ledger, the Washington government will not permit it to become a part of the law. With the exception of the larger concerns, spot buyers, manufacturers and exporters are practically annihilation to their business in the provisions of the Clarke amendment, and the consequent concentration of the spot business of the south into a few hands would result in fatally restricted competition among buyers, increased risk, and consequently a greater middleman's profit than now exists. This would not protect wool, of course, pay the increased charge. The trade, as well as the leaders in international trade balance on the right side of the ledger, the Washington government will not permit it to become a part of the law. With the exception of the larger concerns, spot buyers, manufacturers and exporters are practically annihilation to their business in the provisions of the Clarke amendment, and the consequent concentration of the spot business of the south into a few hands would result in fatally restricted competition among buyers,

GEORGIA BANKERS WARN STATE COTTON GROWERS

Attention Called to Resolutions of Steamship and Railroad Lines Regarding Bills

In a circular that is being sent to the farmers, ginners, cotton seed oil mills, cotton exporters and compresses of the state by the Georgia Bankers' association, attention is called to a resolution recently passed at a meeting of the steamship companies and all railroad lines east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, that will revolutionize the shipping and export of cotton in bales, through a full description of the condition of the bale on the bill of lading at the time the paper is issued.

Agents of railroad and steamship companies are required to give each shipment of cotton a thorough inspection upon its receipt and to place in writing upon the bill of lading the exact condition of the cotton, in regard to dampness, lack of proper bagging and whether or not the cotton is weather stained.

Such notations, on bills of lading if justified, will destroy the negotiability of these cotton bills in so far as the banks are concerned, making it impossible for the exporter or buyer to draw through New York, or other financial centers for the value of the shipment.

To Farmers, Ginners, Cotton Seed Oil Mills, Cotton Exporters and Cotton Compresses:

Owing to the large and, it is alleged, unjust claims, which have been made against the steamship and railroad lines for damages to cotton, we would call your attention to the following resolutions, which were adopted at a meeting of the steamship and all railroad lines east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, held on June 18 relative to the condition in which bales of cotton must be placed before a clean bill of lading will be issued, either by the railroads or the steamships, namely:

That effective on and after September 1, 1913, no railroad or steamship bill of lading will be issued without describing the actual condition of the bales of cotton received by them.

The following clauses descriptive of bales of cotton to be used in bills of lading:

First. Not thoroughly covered.

Second. Covering insufficient to retain marks.

Third. More or less wet.

Fourth. More or less stained.

Fifth. More or less soiled.

Sixth. Bales of cotton tendered for shipment wet and subsequently allowed to dry out will be marked "Bales have been wet and dried."

Seventh. The standard size of gin boxes is to be 27x54 inches and an extra charge of $1 per bale on cotton will be made for ocean freight on all bales from boxes of greater length or width than the above size.

Eighth. The standard size bale 27x54 inches is the basis of the freight engagement with ocean carriers, and each and every bale of cotton from gin boxes not exceeding 27x54 inches must, on delivery, contain a minimum density of 12 1-2 pounds to the cubic foot. Any bale of these dimensions that does not show this density, if not repressed to the required density, shall pay extra freight of 50 cents per bale.

Ninth. Each and every bale of cotton must be durably and legibly marked or branded. Marks to be placed between bands so that no part of the mark will be covered by the band. No other mark allowed upon the bale except head brand (if any) and the mark under which the bale is moving for export. All other marks to be thoroughly obliterated so that no part of any old mark will remain.

Tenth. When the quality of the bagging is insufficient to carry the mark to destination a patch of good bagging or cloth should be put on the bale, under the bands, to bear the mark.

You will note by the above resolutions that it is the positive intention of all steamship and railroad agents to give the subject of cotton inspection, commencing September 1, 1913, very rigid attention. You will further note that should the cotton tendered for shipment bear any of the defects noted above, that either any or all of them will be so noted on the bill of lading. We desire to state that if the condition of the cotton justifies these notations on the bills of lading and they are so noted, that these notations will destroy the negotiability of these cotton bills of lading insofar as the banks are concerned and it will become impossible for the exporter or cotton buyer to draw through New York or other financial centers for the value of the cotton, when the bill of lading accompanying same bears any of the above enumerated notations or exceptions.

As the time is exceedingly short before the movement of the next crop, and as it is essential for all bills of lading to be relieved of any exceptions whatsoever, it is of grave import that you and all of you exert every effort within your power to see that all cotton in your territory conform to these rules and to bring them face to face with the seriousness of the situation and the necessity of seeing first, that the bale when ginned is the proper and standard size gin box and that it be kept at all times under cover and not subject to rain and other weather hazards; that sufficient bagging of good quality be used, and, in short, that the cotton, which is the most valuable of our products, be given the treatment that is required for its preservation and marketing.

Young Dorn and two others, B. F. Baker and Robert Christie, were shot to death by soldiers while they were driving across the "dead line" established around the Augusta power house. The elder Dorn is very bitter against the troops for what he terms the "military murders." He wants a legislative committee appointed to investigate the killings, and says he will produce a great many witnesses who were not permitted to be heard at the courtmartial which exonerated the soldiers who did the shooting.

ATLANTA POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS ON INCREASE

Office Will Soon Be in $15,000 Class, Thinks Postmaster McKee

The receipts of the Atlanta postoffice for the fiscal year ending June 30 were $1,328,601.24, or an increase of $116,905.63 over the previous fiscal year, according to the report of C. J. Sheehan, the auditor, just made.

Remarkable as this showing is the further fact that every year the postoffice shows a gain. It has been in the million-dollar class since 1911. Postmaster McKee expects Atlanta to be in the exclusive class which yields $150,000 a month.

The detailed report of the auditor shows that for the first quarter of the fiscal year just closed, which included the months of July, August and September, 1912, the receipts equaled $298,151.17 for the second quarter, October, November and December 1912, the receipts were $328,775.10; the third quarter, consisting of January, February and March, 1913, showed receipts of $361,725.79 and the final quarter had receipts of $329,358.64.

OLLIE TAYLOR WILL BE FREED IF JOB IS FOUND

Supt. Means Says He's Splendid Automobile Mechanic and Asks Work for Him

Ollie Taylor, the boy who has achieved an almost international reputation through sensational headlines to the effect that he was sentenced to serve eleven years for stealing a 5-cent bottle of soda water, is soon to be paroled from the Fulton county industrial farm.

In fact, he will secure his conditional release just as soon as Superintendent T. A. Means can get a job for him.

When he was ten years old Ollie Taylor was accounted incorrigible. He had not had a chance to go to school, and practically was running about the streets without any control or restraint. After he had violated his probation to the police officers repeatedly, he was finally sent to the reformatory.

Boys committed to the reformatory receive indeterminate sentences. That is, they are placed in charge of the head of the institution until they are twenty-one years old, but may be released before that time in the discretion of the head of the institution and the Fulton county board.

The boys of the reformatory, if they obey its rules and try to lead better lives, are generally paroled long before they reach their majority. But in the case of Ollie Taylor, his father tried to secure his release by a writ of habeas corpus, which was carried to the supreme court, which upheld the sentence of the lower court.

As the technical charge was that Ollie Taylor had stolen a 5 cent bottle of soda water, the supreme court's decision occasioned a number of sensational stories, which have made the name of Ollie Taylor known over the entire country. Many people, especially in Chicago, not knowing the full circumstances, called Georgia barbarous for giving a ten-year-old boy such a sentence.

Now, however, the case of Ollie Taylor has become an example to show the value of the "indeterminate sentence."

The boy is about to be released because he has been behaving himself.

He was sentenced to the institution when ten years old, and now he is not quite fourteen. While at the industrial farm Ollie Taylor has developed physically into a strong and robust boy. Mentally he has secured a knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic. The rudiments of an education which, probably he would never have had if he had remained on the streets of Atlanta instead of having an enforced stay in the county corrective institution.

According to Prof. Means, Ollie Taylor and six other boys, who were paroled at his request by the board of county commissioners Wednesday, will secure their liberty just as soon as jobs are found for them.

It is the policy of the institution not to release an inmate until some provision for his future has been made.

The Taylor boy and his six companions will be paroled for only four months. However, in that time they have violated none of the provisions of their paroles, they will continue at liberty, which they will have as long as they conduct themselves properly.

Prof. Means states that Ollie Taylor has a decided mechanical turn, and has recently done considerable work on an automobile which is used by the officers of the institution. For that reason the superintendent is especially anxious to get him a job as an automobile mechanic.

ADJUTANT GENERAL NASH RAPS COBURN INTERVIEW

Brands It "Thoughtless and Uncalled for Expression" in Letter

"A most unfortunate, thoughtless and uncalled for expression, if not an unintentional affront to the intelligence of the gentlemen who compose the general assembly of Georgia," is the way Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash characterizes the recent statement of Lieutenant William S. Coburn, of Company K, Fifth regiment, who announced that fifteen officers of the Fifth would resign in the event the legislature amended the military act of 1912, by placing the troops when called out for duty under the direction of the civil authorities.

Adjutant General Nash has written a letter to Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, of the Fifth regiment, in which he deplores the utterances of Lieutenant Coburn. This letter, which meets with the indorsement of Colonel Pomeroy, says in part:

"Such expressions coming from members of the national guard are greatly to be deplored, and I trust that you will take the necessary steps to caution your officers against any public agitation of pending legislation. The present general assembly is composed of thoughtful business men of affairs and I feel assured that they will undoubtedly accord every consideration to the national guard before enacting into law any measure which would make of us a useless sacrifice in the discharge of our sworn duty in upholding the majesty of the law and the good name of our state."

C. S. BARRETT HOME FROM TRANS-CONTINENT TRAVEL

Georgian Head of Farmers' Union to Address Own Homefolks for While

Charles S. Barrett, of Union City, Ga., president of the National Farmers' Union, is perhaps the most traveled man in the United States just now. Within the past two months he has crossed the American continent no less than six times, and during the last six months he has delivered from one to a half dozen addresses in practically every state in the union.

Mr. Barrett has just returned from Oklahoma. He has come back to Georgia to make a number of addresses. Although Mr. Barrett is a native Georgian and resides in this state he has appeared but seldom before Georgians. "I propose to get better acquainted with my home folks," he says. "The farmers of this state are rapidly waking up to the great benefits to be derived from membership in the farmers' union and next week I will make six speeches in Georgia. It is a rather remarkable fact that I am better known in the east, west and northwest than I am in Georgia.

"I don't intend for that condition to continue. The farmers of this state are just as much interested in bettering their conditions as are the farmers of any other section and it will be my purpose to aid them just as far as possible."

At several of his meetings in Georgia next week Mr. Barrett will be assisted by L. M. Rhodes, of Huntington, Tenn., president of the Tennessee branch of the farmers' union and a member of the board of directors of the national union, and J. J. Brown, former assistant commissioner of agriculture for Georgia. All three will make instructive addresses.

Mr. Barrett has engagements to attend the annual conventions of the farmers' unions in the following states: Florida, at Gainesville, July 16; Kentucky, at Louisville, July 22; South Carolina, at Isle of Palms, July 23; Indiana, at Spencer, July 30; Louisiana, at Marksville, July 31; Arkansas, at Magnolia, August 5. Texas, at San Antonio, August 6-7; Missouri, at St. Louis, August 10; Illinois, at McLeansboro, August 16; Oklahoma, at Shawnee, August 19; Alabama, at Montgomery, August 21-22; North Carolina, at Raleigh, August 28.

PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER TO BE WHITE HOUSE BRIDE

MISS JESSIE WOODROW WILSON.

The announcement by President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson of the engagement of their second daughter, Jessie Woodrow Wilson, to Mr. Francis Bowes Sayre, of Lancaster, Pa., has been received with more than usual interest, particularly in the south.

The wedding, which will take place in November, will be the first of a Georgia girl in the White House, and the first to take place there since Miss Alice Roosevelt and Mr. Nicholas Longworth were married. Miss Wilson will be the thirteenth White House bride, but, because of her father's oft-declared belief that thirteen is a lucky number for him and his family, the bride-to-be attaches no unlucky significance to the fact.

The wedding will start the winter social season in Washington. The engagement was withheld until the first anniversary of Mr. Wilson's nomination for the presidency.

Miss Wilson is a graduate of Goucher college, where she specialized in political science. She has been interested in sociological work since her graduation and has been prominently identified with Y. W. C. A. work.

Mr. Sayre is not so well known in Washington, though he has visited at the White House several times since President and Mrs. Wilson took possession, and he was a frequent visitor at their Princeton home.

He is twenty-eight years of age and, after preparing at the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa., and Lawrenceville, N. J., graduated from Williams college in 1906. He was manager of the football team there, valedictorian of his class, and interested in Y. M. C. A. work. He spent two summers with Dr. Alfred T. Grenfell in his missionary work on the coast of Labrador and studied law at Harvard law school, where he graduated last year, "cum laude." He has traveled extensively during his vacation, spending last summer in Alaska and northern Siberia.

Mr. Sayre comes from a collegiate family. His father was the late Robert Heysham Sayre, for a long time president of the board of trustees of Lehigh university, and builder of the Lehigh Valley railroad. His mother was Martha Finley Nevin, a daughter of John Williamson Nevin, theologian and president of Franklin and Marshall college at Lancaster, Pa. She is descended from Hugh Williamson, of North Carolina, one of the framers of the constitution. She is a sister of Robert J. Nevin, head of the American Church of Rome, Italy, and a first cousin of Ethelbert Nevin, the composer.

Mr. Sayre is connected with the New York district attorney's office, and will be made one of the regular assistants to District Attorney Whitman next year.

The first wedding in the White House was during the Madison administration, when, in 1811, Miss Lucy Payne Washington became the wife of Judge Todd, of Kentucky.

Miss Washington was a sister of Mrs. Madison, and in the following year Mrs. Madison gave up the White House for the wedding of a cousin, Miss Anna Todd.

Weddings followed after that in the Monroe and Adams administrations until President Jackson set the records for nuptials performed under official auspices. During his regime three weddings were solemnized. The last wedding was that of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, in 1906.

The only president of the United States to be married in the White House was President Cleveland, who married Miss Frances Folsom there in 1886. The total to date is twelve. Miss Wilson's wedding will be the thirteenth.

To Brenau Girls

A pleasant event of this afternoon was the reception given by the members of the Brenau colony at the home of Mrs. Karl W. Brittain, on North avenue, to the new girls who attended Brenau college this year.

The attractive home was prettily decorated for the occasion, the colors of the college, yellow and black, being used. Black-eyed Susans and other yellow flowers brightened the rooms, and the tea table was adorned with festoons of smilax caught with yellow and black tulle.

The officers of the club Mrs. V. J. Adams, Miss Mary Lucy Turner, Mrs. William Owens and Mrs. Brittain, received.

Officers were elected at the brief business session which preceded.

A Tango Evening At Hotel Ansley

The "Tango evening" to be given under the auspices of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., will be enjoyed by a representative crowd of Atlanta's society folk and many prominent visitors.

The entertainment will be in the attractive ball room of the new Ansley hotel on Friday evening, July Fourth.

Between the hours of 9 and 10 some of Atlanta's sweetest singers will be heard and at 10 o'clock the dancing will begin.

Evening dress will not be a requisite, as there will be the same informality that prevails at the club dances during the summer.

The tickets are $1 and include refreshments and the privilege of dancing.

The Vesper Club Dance

Plans are being made for an enjoyable evening and all members are invited.

The chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Harbour, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Callaway, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Holcombe, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Withers.

A Novelty Dance

The Joy Seekers' club will give a novelty dance at Lakewood park Thursday night, July 3.

All are invited to attend. Souvenirs given away. Admission, 50 cents a couple.

To Clover Club

The Clover club of the Y. W. C. A. was entertained on Wednesday evening, Jupne 25, by Dr and Mrs. Homer McCoy at their home on Capitol avenue.

Beside the club members present there were Mrs. Charles Haden, Miss Stockweather, traveling secretary of the National Y. W. C. A., and Miss Langford, secretary of the Columbia, S. C., association.

After an al fresco supper reports were made from the delegates to the Y. W. C. A. conference, Miss Dora Cagle and Miss Ada Moore, and by interesting talks by Mrs. Haden and Miss Stockweather.

Governor and Mrs. Slaton Entertain General Assembly

Characterized by a hospitality truly Georgian and a responsiveness equally Georgian was the reception at which Governor and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton entertained Wednesday evening in honor of the general assembly.

It was an al fresco affair, Governor and Mrs. Slaton receiving on the lawn, which presented a brilliant scene, lit with hundreds of Japanese lanterns and incandescent lights.

A hedge of pines formed a screen across the Peachtree and Cain street sides of the lawn, aglow with lotus flowers inclosing electric globes. The guests entered from Cain street, bay trees forming an aisle up the walk to the porte cochere, which looked like a Japanese pagoda festooned with rainbow-colored lanterns, a suggestion further emphasized by the Japanese butler of the hosts who was stationed at the doorway.

The shrubs growing near the house were abloom with flowers, in which glowed tiny lights, and across the front of the mansion there was a further decoration in Japanese lanterns festooned from a draped flag above the main entrance.

The magnolia trees on each side the steps were covered with green, pink blooms, in which burned electric lights, and on both sides the little path leading to the porte cochere where the governor and his wife received stood the members of the governor's staff in full uniform, their gold buttons and braid adding another touch of color to the picture.

Standing with Governor and Mrs. Slaton were Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burwell, Judge and Mrs. Roan and Mr. and Mrs. George Hope.

Mrs. Slaton was a very gracious and lovely figure, wearing a gown of exquisite beauty particularly suited to its wearer. Over foundation skirts of chiffon there was a short tunic of dimiest lace bordered with tiny pastel colored flower sequins centered by rhinestones. The corsage combined the lace and chiffon with a touch of apricot colored charmeuse, the same soft satin forming a broad sashlike drapery in the back, the little pointed train also finished with a fold of the satin.

She wore a necklace of pearls and diamonds and carried a small bouquet of lillies of the valley.

On both sides the broad walk, at the end of which the Seventeenth infantry band was stationed, there were fountain sunk in beds of bright *leafed colias and blooming flow*ers, and in the open space under the trees on both sides the lawn little lattice arbors were festooned with smilax and lanterns, where punch was served, a charming group of Atlanta's prettiest young women serving, including Mrs. Slaton's niece, Miss Margaret Grant, and Miss Margaret Hawkins, Miss Adgate Ellis, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Harriet Calhoun, Miss Fassie May Ottley and Miss Virginia Lipscomb.

Holding a delightful little court throughout the evening on the broad porch was Mrs. W. D. Grant, who wore a beautiful gown of white lace and chiffon and had as her special guests her kinspeople, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hunt, of Eatonton.

Ices and sodas were served buffet to the guests gathered in congenial groups on the lawn and indoors.

The rooms opening into the hall were bright with crimson gladioli, the long mirror at the end of the hall banked with foliage plants and bright flowers and reflecting the streams of callers passing in and out.

Distinguished among the several hundred guests was General Evans and the members of his staff, and Colonel Van Orsdale and the officers of Fort McPherson, their full dres uniforms adding to the picturesqueness of the brilliant occasion.

How to Drown a Fish

(Harper's Weekly.)

Fish have been drowned, just as human beings have been smothered by a too great pressure of air. One experiment consisted in putting fish into seltzer water, which brought about death by suffocation. If a living and healthy fish be put into water recently boiled, from which have been driven all the gases ordinarily present in distilled water, the fish dies in the same way.

Who's Who and What's What

An Englishman visiting this country recently commented on the advanced development of our advertising. He said that one might get a liberal education in a remarkably short space of time by an intimate study of the advertising in first-class newspapers.

That may have been expressing it rather strongly—perhaps as a result of his enthusiasm—but it must be apparent to every thoughtful reader that newspaper advertising as it is conducted nowadays possesses an unusual educational value.

We are quite sure that the man from over the sea might come to Atlanta a total stranger, and, by diligent attention to the advertising appearing daily in THE JOURNAL, soon be very well informed as to the customs and the fashions, where to go for his shopping and his recreation.

He would find from advertisements in THE JOURNAL that Atlanta merchants are in closest touch with the creative centers of fashion, and that what is "good" in London is on sale in Atlanta.

Hand-Voight

The wedding of Miss Alleen Voight and Mr. Eugene Harvey Hand, of Columbia, S. C., took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George Rucker, on East Pine street on Saturday, June 28.

The wedding was a quiet one, only the family and a few friends were present.

Rev. Russell K. Smith, of Epiphany Episcopal church performed the ceremony.

The matron of honor was Mrs. George Sudder.

Mr. and Mrs. Hand left for a wedding journey and on their return they will be at home in Columbia, S. C.

Allen-Alexander

The marriage of Miss Carrie Alexander and Mr. W. D. Allen was solemnized last evening at 9 o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother, 148 Juniper street. It was a quiet home wedding, beautiful and impressive in the simplicity of its detail and sweet in its home atmosphere of family and close friends.

The decorations throughout the house were in white and green. Palms, ferns, smilax and ascension lilies were used.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Miss Eloise Alexander and Miss Lucile Alexander, who wore dresses of soft white voile and carried arm bouquets of pink roses. Preceding the bride came her little niece, Eloise Gaines, in a dainty lingerie dress with pink ribbons and carrying a basket of sweet pink peas.

The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Harry Alexander. Her wedding gown was of chiffon and lace draped over satin. The veil was becomingly adjusted to a Juliet of point lace, and her jewels, a necklace and pendant of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies.

The groom with his best man, Mr. S. T. Sparkman of Columbia, S. C., met the bride before an altar of palms ferns and ascension lilies, lighted by candles. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden. Following the ceremony was a reception. Salads, ices and punch were served from the dining room, where the table was most attractive with its lace covering and baskets of lilies and ferns.

The bride's mother wore black charmeuse and lace. She was assisted in the entertainment of the guests by her daughters, Misses Eloise and Lucile Alexander; Mrs. Lewis Gaines and Mrs. Harry Alexander. Mrs. Gaines wore a gown of lavender veiling over gray satin and Mrs. Harry Alexander wore her wedding gown of charmeuse and point lace.

Music throughout the evening under the direction of Mr. Whitney Hubner added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

After a month on the lakes and in Canada Mr. and Mrs. Allen will be at home at the Manor in Asheville, N. C., where Mr. Allen is manager of the insurance department of the Wachovia Bank and Trust company.

Carter-Morgan

A pretty wedding of June 25 was that of Miss Nanelle Morgan and Mr. W. L. Carter, of Columbus, at Hill Crest, the lovely country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Morgan, of Troup county.

The reception hall and parlors were beautiful in their decorations of southern smilax, pink crepe myrtle and other flowers.

Mrs. Lillian Willis and Miss Sara Satterwhite received the guests. Miss Eunice Sands presided over the bride's book.

After a song by Miss Lola Daniel, the bridal party descended the stairs and entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ruby Carlton, Miss Elizabeth Morgan, Miss Mary Jim Morgan and Miss Evelyn Sasser came first, carrying bouquets of Shasta daisies, then the maid of honor, Miss Louise Morgan, sister of the bride, entered. The matron of honor, Mrs. W. H. Campbell, wore a gown of silk ratine and carried pink roses. The little flower girls, Janet White and Helen Campbell, carried baskets of pink roses.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin. She carried a bouquet of white roses showered with valley lilies. Her only ornaments were a diamond sunburst and a necklace of diamonds and pearls, gifts of the groom.

The groom entered with his best man, Mr. Clifford Knowles, of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter left immediately for their home in Columbus.

The Evening Story

ENVY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Wymer.)

Luella dusted the golden oak rocker and dingy oak bookcase and old-fashioned center table in her parlor viciously. The bay, crawling after her, jammed half of a red engine against Mrs. Morris' chair and another scar was added to those the carved legs already presented. Luella picked him up, scolded him, and set him hard in his high chair, where he whimpered for ten minutes and then discovered that the red portion of the engine still gripped in a dirty little fist was excellent for carving the back of the chair.

Before the dusting was over the bell rang. Luella impatiently opened the door expecting an agent. The frown that she had worn all morning deepened; then was hastily suppressed. Young Mrs. Krent, who lived across the hall, stood there smiling, and daintily dressed in a blue tailored broadcloth suit and a big plumed hat that set off her dainty pink and white charms.

"I want to ask a favor," she said. "I'm going downtown shopping, and it will take all day. Would you mind accepting the packages I am sent out? I am without a maid this week."

"Certainly," Luella agreed as cordially as she could with the knowledge that into life and she and Fred quarreled at the supper table. That is, she quarreled. Fred tried to appease her.

"I know it's been a hard pull," he said, contritely. "But if the foreman goes west next year, as he threatens, I'm in line for the job, and we'll be on easy street. And Ted here," pinching the fat, gravy-smeared cheek, "can have a velocipede."

Luella was not to be appeased. "Foreman of a plumbers' shop!" she echoed contemptuously. "What does that amount to? I suppose we can afford a more cheap furniture on time and have it wear out before it's paid for."

"You liked the furniture when we were first married, and you knew what my prospects were," Fred was goaded into retorting.

"I hadn't seen"— She bit her lips over an admission that she didn't care to make.

Fred understood. He completed it angrily. "You hadn't got acquainted with Mrs. Krent," he said. "Well, I can't keep up with Krent. I'm sorry, I'd like to have things as well as you."

They finished supper in sullen silence, and the next morning breakfast was eaten in the same uncomfortable way. It was Saturday, Luella's weekly cleaning day. But she did not work with her usual thoroughness. All day the bell rang and she received packages for Mrs. Krent—shoe boxes, two big hat boxes, and, several long, flat packages that were either waists or shirts—more than Luella had bought in all her four years of married life. Luella's envy grew until the quarrel of the preceding night threatened to be repeated disastrously when Fred came home. It was seldom that Luella let her temper get the best of her, but when she did it was no light matter. She was rapidly getting to an uncontrollable state of mind when Mrs. Howe, a tired, shrinking little woman living a flight above, came down to use her telephone.

"Working hard?" Mrs. Krent continued, as she drew on her long kid gloves. "One just has to slave to keep an apartment looking ordinarily decent. But you haven't mahogany furniture. That's what takes the elbow grease. I sometimes think it isn't worth the agony. And yet one likes to have a lovely home. Good-bye. So kind of you to oblige me."

Then she was gone. The fragrance of her delicate perfume lingered after she had hurried down the hall. Luella sighed wearily and dropped into a chair. What was the use of cleaning, dusting, and fussing with furniture so shabby that most people—Mrs. Krent, for instance—would consign it to the rubbish pile? At the time of her marriage, four years before, it had been bought on the instalment plan. There were two payments to be made yet, and it was scarred, damaged, and not fit to be seen.

She had not minded so much until this year, when Mrs. Krent moved into the building. The other tenants' furnishings were somewhat like her own. But Mrs. Krent had lovely, big, massive chairs, a tufted davenport that cost more than everything in Luella's flat, Oriental rugs, and Haviland china; and Mrs. Krent had a cutting way of emphasizing her own magnificence and her neighbors' plainness. The afternoon before she had run in to display a small etched plate that Mr. Krent, a traveling man, had picked up and sent to her. She mentioned the price, $12, as casually as Luella would have mentioned a glass fruit dish picked up at a 10-cent store. The result was that Luella's latent discontent of the last year sprang licky feeling that something might happen to him before she saw him again. She held Ted in her lap while he ate supper—she herself had no appetite. She quivered with the sudden strange fear that death brings. Ted was of a forgiving nature. The day was promptly erased from his mind and he gobbled potatoes and gravy, his favorite dish, with calm gusto.

At 9 o'clock he was asleep again and Mrs. Krent ran in to learn why Luella hadn't come over to see her bargains. Luella stared stupidly. She had forgotten all about Mrs. Krent. She shook her head. "Haven't time."

She hurriedly selected one package from the basket that the boy had just brought. "I don't want veal stew," she said. "Would you mind bringing spareribs instead?"

Little Stories For Bedtime

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

You must get up very early,
You must lie awake at night,
You must have your wits well sharpened
And your eyes must be so bright
That there's nothing can escape them,
Nothing that you do not see
If ahead of Granny Fox you
Ever get or hope to be.

Happy Jack Squirrel made up that verse, one day after he had had, oh, such a narrow escape from old Granny Fox. It had made Happy Jack very sober for a while, for Granny had so nearly caught him that she actually had pulled some hair from Happy Jack's tail. All the other little forest and meadow people agreed that Happy Jack was quite right. Most of them had had just such narrow escapes from old Granny Fox.

You see it is this way: Old Granny Fox is very, very cunning. To be cunning, you know, is to be sly and smart in doing things in such a way that no one else will think of. Just now the thing that Granny wanted most of anything in the world was to drive Old Man Coyote away from the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. She couldn't do it openly because he was bigger and stronger than she, so she had thought and thought and thought, trying to find some plan which might get Mr. Wolf into trouble so that he would go away and stay away. When Reddy Fox told her that he had found the place where Old Man Coyote took a sun-nap every day, a splendid plan came to Granny. At least it seemed like a splendid plan. The more she thought about it the better it seemed.

But Granny Fox never acts hastily. She is too wise for that. So she studied and studied this plan that she had thought of. Finally she was satisfied. "I believe it will work. I certainly do believe it will work," said she, and called Reddy Fox over to her.

"I want you to make sure that Old Man Coyote takes his sun-nap in the same place every day," said she. "You must see him there yourself. It won't do to take the word of any one else for it. I want you to steal up every day and make sure that he is there. Be sure you don't tell any one, not any one at all, what you are doing, and above all things, don't let him get so much as a glimpse of you."

Reddy promised that he would take the greatest care, and for a week every day he crept to a snug hiding place behind a thick clump of grass where he could peep through and see Old Man Coyote taking his sun-nap. Then he would tiptoe softly away and hurry to report to old Granny Fox.

"Good!" she would say. "Go again tomorrow and make sure that he is there."

"But what do you want to know for?" Reddy asked one day, for he was becoming very, very curious.

"Never mind what I want to know for," replied Granny severely. "Do as I tell you and you will find out soon enough."

You see, Granny Fox was too cunning to let even Reddy know of her plan, for if no one but herself knew it it couldn't possibly leak out, and that, you know, is the only way to keep a secret.

HIGH SCHOOL PARTY GUESTS AT ANSLEY

W. E. Drane, superintendent of Hoke Smith institute, Buena Vista, passed through Atlanta Thursday en route to the state high school meet at Athens. Accompanying him were the following students who go as representatives of his school: Miss Sallie Lou Chapman, music; Miss Myrtle Kilcrease, spelling; Frank Benson and Grady Chapman, athletics, and Miss Ethel Chapman, as chaperon.

These students won for the school this year the Hoke Smith trophy, a magnificent loving cup donated by Senator Hoke Smith to the Fourth district High school association. They were guests of the Ansley while here.

ROAD TRIP A SUCCESS

ANOTHER WIN FROM MOBILE

This Time Paul Musser Did the Hurling and Acquitted Himself in Fine Form—Hard Hitting by Both Clubs

MOBILE, Ala., July 2.—Atlanta topped her road trip off nicely on Wednesday by taking the second straight from the Mobile Gulls and bringing the league leaders down another notch. The score was 3 to 1.

Musser worked in shutout form, but the Gulls managed to get one tally off his delivery in the eighth, when HOGG was run into the game and delivered in the pinch. The blond-haired hurler started bad, walking the first two men to face him, but he settled down, and before many innings had the Gulls at his beck and call. Manager Smith stated that he might keep Musser on the string for a day or two longer, although he has signed Smith, who was the sensation of the Birmingham hurling staff last year.

Atlanta found W. Robertson easily, getting one hit in almost every inning, and in the seventh getting such a bunch as to net two tallies. This inning went as follows: Musser went out to short. Long fouled to catcher. Welchonce hit a two-sacker, and scored on Alperman's single past third. Alperman went to third on an error by Schmidt, and Bailey drove Alpermann home with a double to right field fence. Welchonce again featured the game by a shoestring catch which started a double play.

Six Victories, Four Losses While on Road

In the last series of the road trip Atlanta both outhit and outfielded Mobile, thereby giving herself an edge on opposing teams for the ten games played on the road in fielding.

The Crackers got better and better as their trip progressed, and it seems as if they should strike their stride when they reach home.

On the road, Atlanta outhit New Orleans, but was outfielded by the Pels. They were both outhit and outfielded by Memphis. At Montgomery they were outhit, but they outfielded the home team, while in Montgomery they were in the lead with the stick and in fielding.

Below are the averages given by series played, and by the totals for all ten games:

HARD LUCK HASN'T CHASED SMILE FROM CHANCE'S FACE

For a team that couldn't win anything in the east, the New York Americans have done pretty well in the west. The best friends of the club concede that even the "Peerless Leader" cannot do much until his pitching corps rounds into form.

With the coming of warm weather, the Yank pitchers ought to do better. In Fisher and McConnell, the team has two good men, as has been demonstrated of late; Keating, the boy spitball tosser, proved his worth in the early days, and the little giant, Russell Ford, is still a member of the squad. When right, Ford is almost unhittable, as is Jack Warhop, the midget of the Yank hurlers.

LOOKS LIKE CARTER

Atlanta Boy Wins Easily In Each Match

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 3.—Wednesday afternoon's play in the South Atlantic tennis tournament saw the Atlanta racket wielders still leading the field by a good majority. The play was by far the best witnessed during the week. In the men's singles the players were in the fourth round battling for semi-final places. Of the eight men in this round four were Atlanta players. Ed Carter had very little trouble in disposing of Elmer Waring, the latter being completely outclassed in every department of play. Carter seems to get better as the tournament progresses, and looms up as a certain winner. His work against Waring, especially at the net, was brilliant.

Carl Ramspeck won the prettiest played match of the day from Garrett of Augusta. He was driving on fore and back hand with great accuracy and won most of his points by passing Garrett at the net. Ramspeck's work so far in the tournament warrants the prediction that he will be the man Carter will face in the final round. He meets next the winner of the Parks-Gary match.

J. K. Orr and Irwin, the Clemson star, had a warm time in their match, which was called at a set-all on account of darkness. Both took the back court and drove hard and steady. Irwing pulled the first set when Orr had a 4-1 lead, but the Atlanta man came back strong and took the next set 6-4. The match will be finished Thursday morning.

Lloyd Parks meets Gary, of Augusta, Thursday. Parks has been playing nice tennis and should show up well against Gary, but hardly has a chance to win.

The doubles are well under way, and here also the Atlantians rule favorites. Three out of the four Atlanta teams won their matches.

In the first round Orr and Ramspeck defeated Wilkins and Bussey 6-3, 6-3. Carter and Griffith defeated Bradenberg and Gercke 6-3, 6-4. And Parks and Hall defeated Birkmire and Cully 6-1, 6-1. Reynolds and Wilson lost their match to Garrett and Gary 6-3, 6-0.

In the consolation singles, the two Atlanta men won matches, Wilson defeating Cummings 7-5, 2-6, 6-2, and Matthews winning from Branch 8-6, 6-2 and 6-3.

FRANK LEADS TURTTE CLUB

Rumor Has It That Bernhard Will Go to New Orleans and Frank to Memphis With Start of 1914 Season

Bill Bernhard, manager of the Memphis club and Charley Frank, leader of the New Orleans Pelicans, have swapped places for 1914, the Memphis mogul taking up the developing of youngsters for the Cleveland Naps while Frank again goes to the protecting wing of his uncle, Frank Coleman, owner of the Memphis club. Nothing authentic regarding this change has been officially given out yet, it is common talk and from a most reliable source.

The deposition of Frank as manager at New Orleans has long been forecasted yet few fans have ever put any faith in the continued report. The genial leader has had a good ball club until this season and reported trouble with the Cleveland management is said to be the cause of his failure to have his team in the running this season. Frank has long been managing ball clubs in the Southern circuit and is there is a leader who knows any more about the doings of the league he has not come to light.

Bill Bernhard is one of the cleverest and most popular of managers. In his short connection with the league he has made friends wherever he has gone and has gotten next to the managerial job in amazingly quick fashion. He has handled both Nashville and Memphis clubs and done well with both.

The change luckily keeps both the managers in the league and the switch may be a benefit to the league. Frank is popular in Memphis, where he was managed; and Bernhard will undoubtedly get along well down in New Orleans. In fact, it looks like the change will be for the betterment of the leaders as well as the clubs concerned. Frank Coleman, owner of the Memphis club is Frank's uncle and knows just how to best get along with the ex-Pel. On the other hand Bill Bernhard was long interested with Charles Somers, president of the Cleveland club and main owner of the New Orleans club but Frank run "Somers farm" in jam up fashion.

It is said that the main reason for the poor showing of the Pel club has been Cleveland's failure to send players as was expected, owing to a bit of trouble between Frank and Somers. Now if these two moguls are having trouble the change will be doubly beneficial.

Opening Game With Pelicans

Thursday is not an off-day as scheduled, one of the postponed games scheduled for New Orleans having been transferred here. This battle between the New Orleans and Atlanta clubs will be staged at Ponce de Leon park Thursday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock with the big two-game affair waiting over until July 4.

The Atlanta club is just back from a successful road trip and elpect to get a good start on the home lot by taking the Pels into camp in the opening game. To accomplish this task Elliott Dent will most likely be sent to the hill with Harry Chapman catching. This pair is in good shape.

Opposed to the Cracker club Manager Frank will doubtless use Brenton, his star, with Jack Adams catching. Conzelman and Wilson are held in reserve by the rival managers and either may be used.

Bet Bad Money

CINCINNATI, O., July 3.—Four Italians were arrested at the Latonia race track, charged with betting counterfeit money on the races. They were turned over to the United States authorities and are said to have confessed that they have been passing counterfeit silver dollars at the track since the opening of the season. It is alleged they made a practice of wrapping a counterfeit dollar in a good paper dollar and then placed the wager on the favorites.

MORNING AND AFTERNOON GAMES ON FOURTH OF JULY

Big doings are promised at Ponce de Leon park on July Fourth, which happens to be on Friday. With New Orleans as the rival club, the Cracker outfit will play two games, one in the morning at 10:45 and the other in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Crackers are out to get away with a clean sweep this series to get right in the thick of the running, and Manager Smith will work his star flingers.

The New Orleans club has been going a bit poorly all seasop, and with the Cracker team in anything like the very best of shape, there should be a good opportunity for the locals to pull up a round or so. Two straight wins over the Mobile Gulls has given the club confidence, and you can be sure every player is out to go his very best.

At the two games Friday it is expected that quite a crowd will be in attendance, and the fans should get their tickets at the uptown places. They can be had at either of Elliott stores, Peachtree and Marietta or Broad and Walton. It saves a long watt and a lot of trouble when they are purchased uptown.

Conzelman and Price will most likely be used in the two games on July Fourth, and with these boys working in their present form it should mean a double victory for the home clan. Clarence Smith, the flinger just purchased from the Chicago White Sox, will most likely be on hand and will probably get a chance on Saturday.

CHAT'NOOGA CLAIMS RAG

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 3.—Local fans are preparing a rousing reception for the Lookouts when they return on Independence day with the Memphis Turtles, after their sensational tour of the southern half of the circuit. A brass band has already been secured by public subscription to meet the athletes at the depot and to be in attendance at both the morning and afternoon games. Other features will also be provided in all probabilty.

The acquisition of three straight from the league leaders has raised baseball to a fever pitch here and the Lookouts are now considered the most formidable contenders for the pomfalcon, even by the most conservative fans.

MONTGOMERY CLUB MAY GO

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 3.—It developed Wednesday that Richard Tillis has approached the four Montgomery business men holding an option on the Montgomery franchise asking them to release him from the option in order that he may proceed with other negotiations.

Harry Kahn, one of the four business men, positively refuses to release Mr. Tillis from the option, under the terms of which the holders may purchase the Montgomery berth at $15,000 by September 1.

Great Interest in Regatta

HENLY, England, July 3.—The Henly royal regatta, England's water carnival, which opened Wednesday, is even of greater international interest than heretofore, although there are no entries from the United States. Of the 69 entries, 11 are from outside the United Kingdom, including those of the Argonaut Rowing club of Toronto for the grand challenge cup, the race for crews of eight looked upon as the big event in the rowing world.

Last year the cup was won by the Australians, but they have decided not to defend the title. The Argonauts have made four previous attempts to win the trophy the last in 1912.

New Machines At Motordrome

You can look for the fastest racing of the season at the motordrome on Friday evening as most all of the racers at the track will have new and faster machines than in the past. The recent record of 96 miles an hour has stirred up the riders, and they are all out to show that they can ride just as fast.

Monty Graves is the first to get a real new machine. The famous Excelsior, which was once ridden by Don Johns, is now on hand and has been tuned up. It is running like a top and the other racers will surely have to look to their laurels to keep Graves from clipping off a few more seconds from the record.

And Richards and McNeil will not be without fast machines. They have the famous J. A. cars and maybe they won't run. McNeil has spent a week tuning up his motor and he is just sure that he is going to beat 96 miles an hour as he is that he will enter the races.

The big races against time will be staged at 8:27 sharp with the first novice race at 8:10. The big events will take place after 8:30.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Cobb dropped below the .400 mark in Wednesday's contest, when he got only one hit out of four times up. Jackson had a big slump, and came perilously near the .400 mark himself, getting only two hits out of nine times up.

Lookouts Play Golf

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 3.—Pans are completed here for the opening of the club championship tourney of the Chattanooga Golf and Country club on the morning of July 4. According to the figures compiled by the tournament committee more than 60 golfers will enter the qualifying round. Those turning the 32 lowest scores in medal play will constitute the championship flight. The next 16 will compose the third flight, while the second flight will be composed of the 16 defeated in the first round of championship play. Special cups have been offered as trophies in all three flights.

Club Refuses To Ride Auto

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 3.—A heated controversy is in progress between President Fischer, of the Newnan ball club and the LaGrange club. In the officially adopted schedule for the league, Newnan is scheduled to play in LaGrange at 4 p. m. on the afternoon of the Fourth of July. The morning is scheduled in Newnan.

This necessitates the bringing of both teams from Newnan to LaGrange in automobiles, as there is no train after 10:00 o'clock from Newnan to LaGrange until 4:30 in the afternoon. President Fischer announced in LaGrange last night that he absolutely refused to bring his men to LaGrange in automobiles, and demanded that LaGrange play in Newnan in the afternoon. He has appealed to President Boykin at Gadsden, LaGrange having at the outset consented for Newnan to have the opening game of the season on condition that they have the Fourth of July game in the afternoon, the president and directors of the LaGrange club have notified Mr. Boykin and Mr. Fischer that they will have their men on the diamond at 4 o'clock on the Fourth of July, and that if the Newnan team does not show up that the game will be forfeited to LaGrange by a score of 9 to 0.

The rivalry between Newnan and LaGrange is growing more intense each day, and neither town is in the attitude of being willing to yield an inch on any matter. The LaGrange people are rather bitter over the attitude of the Newnan club in regard to the Fourth of July game, as it was part of a compromise agreement made at the meeting of the league directors that Newnan should play in LaGrange on the Fourth of July.

STARS OF ONE DAY

Dode Paskert got three hits out of four times he faced Matty.

Stengel, of Brooklyn, dittoed Dode's performance.

Wheat, of Brooklyn, went his teammate one better and rapped out four out of four. One for three sacks.

Smith, Brooklyn's utility backer, was at bat once, scored three times and got one hit.

Johnson, of Cleveland, connected three out of ten times up and accepted 22 chances without a bobble.

Derrell Pratt got two hits out of eight times up.

J. Johnson, of St. Louis, connected once out of six times up.

Yerkes failed to hit in four trials.

Tris Speaker dittoed Yerkes' performance.

Salles relieved Perritt and held Cincinnati hitless for two innings, while his teammates batted out a 6 to 4 victory.

Russ Ford was hit safely thirteen times by Philadelphia. He himself hit safely once out of two trials.

Bobby Byrne got two safeties out of five times up.

No Hit Battle

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 3.—Pitcher Jeff Davis, of the Columbus American association team, Wednesday shut out the Indianapolis team without allowing a hit. Two bases on balls and three men hit by the pitcher were the only routes by which Indianapolis players reached first base. One of these was doubled out immediately. It was the second no-hit game in the association this year.

Batting Figures

The records of runs and hits in the two major leagues plainly shows that in the National the team play is not near so strong as in the American, where the managers make every bingle count. In the National it is a case of slug the ball and run, while in the younger circuit, the players figure on getting on bases and are then worked around by means of playing the inside game.

The New York Giants and the Philadelphia Nationals are now at the top in the National league, and neither has scored as many runs or hits as the Philadelphia Americans or Cleveland Naps. Neither has the total base hitting of the National league leaders been as hard as that shown in the American. In fact, all the way round the American league teams have surpassed the National league bunches in the finer points of the game.

The Philadelphia Americans have made 554 hits count for 327 runs and a total of 783 bases, while the New York Giants have made 546 hits count for 265 runs and 754 bases. This shows how much superior the Athletics are at the inside ball games; for, when Connie Mack can turn 554 hits in to 327 runs and John McGraw can get but 265 out of 546, it is a sure sign that the Athletics are playing a far better class of ball.

PERSONAL LIBERTY.

("There has been too great an encroachment of late against man's personal liberty. What right has one section to say what another shall do or shall not do?" From a contemporary.)

Bill Jones, the burglar, fared forth to rob;
Bill had the stuff to make good on the job—
A pistol, a jimmy, a bull'seye and other
Details I might mention except for the bother
Of summing them up. But, alas, as he started
To enter a window a rude push imparted
A jolt to his frame as the officer nailed him—
For one fleeting moment the burglar's tongue failed him—
Whereat he exclaimed, "Take yer hands off, you cur;
How dare you encroach on my liberty, sir!"

Jack Smith, the murderer, went forth to kill
Hunting a cove who had treated him ill;
Jack wore a gun that was loaded and ready;
Jack's eye was keen and his pistol hand steady.
He met with his man and he whipped out his gun,
When up walked a copper and broke up the fun;
And none will deny that he acted inanely
In stopping poor Jack, who at once yelled profanely:
"Stand back, or I'll kill you, yer meddlesome cur;
How dare you encroach on my liberty, sir!"

What has become of the old-fashioned pennant race where the Athletics were not ahead on July 4? (Hurdling only the 1912 campaign.)

THE UPSET.

It has been a long time since the Fourth of July failed to find New York, Pittsburg and Chicago among the three leading contenders for first place. By mid-season these three clubs have assumed control for almost a dozen years. Two seasons ago the Phillies were up there in the hunt, and so were the Giants, Pirates and Cubs. Last season the Giants were fifteen games to the good, but the only two clubs in sight were Chicago and Pittsburg.

But now we come to a new era. The Giants alone are left of the once ruling triumvirate. Pittsburg has about blown, the Cubs have been reeled in for the cut, and into the two vacant spots the Phillies and Dodgers have barred, for a spell at least.

It will be interesting to note whether this shift is to last out the season or whether in the end habit will tell, and by late August or September Cubs and Pirates are back. Baseball is full of queer shifts, and with over ninety games left a July ranking can be turned upside down. But on the first ten weeks' form neither Chicago nor Pittsburg belongs with the old machines which for twelve years have been making war in the defense of their native heaths. Neither Chicago nor Pittsburg has looked nearly so well arrayed as Philadelphia and Brooklyn, and if these two drop back as the others come forward it will be more from the psychology directing the Force-of-Habit outbreak than from natural causes involving playing speed and power.

CONCERNING FITNESS.

As we understand it from B. Johnson, Joe Birmingham is not a fit person to manage an American league club, while several National league clubs are of the opinion that John McGraw should be cut adrift at once.

The next edict from Ban will be that Ty Cobb lacks center field fitness for the Tigers and Walter Johnson is not a fit bloke to operate for Washington.

Chase has been playing great ball for the White Sox, working at his old time stride. To which Mr. Chance might reply in the near-words of the poet:

"If he be not great for me,
What care I how great he be?"

Chase isn't the first athlete who has improved with a shift of scenery. Among others might be mentioned Messrs. Steinfeldt, Overall, Archer, Donlin and fifteen or twenty others.

A change of scenery appears to have helped Jack Johnson also. There are no stone walls nor iron bars waiting for him across the water.

Now that Gunboat Smith is eligible to meet Mr. Pelky in the last round of the White Hope division, we can hardly restrain ourselves until the date is announced. It will practically spoil our entire summer if they delay the impending conflict beyond early fall.

SCORES IN BIG MARATHON FOR SOUTH GEORGIA BOYS

Event Is Now Held Each Year and Interest Always Increases

ALBANY, Ga., July 3.—Rules for the Albany-to-Sylvester Marathon race, to be pulled off on the morning of July Fourth, have been prepared, and provide a thorough and comprehensive system of managing and conducting the big running event.

The rules provide that only runners from Worth and Dougherty counties, who were bona fide citizens of one of those counties on May 15 last, are eligible to compete for the prizes.

The race will start at 5 o'clock on the morning of the Fourth, from the office of the Albany Herald. The finish will be in front of the office of the Worth County Local, in Sylvester.

An entrance fee of $2 must be paid by each contestant.

All contestants must assemble at the Y. M. C. A. in Albany, the night before the race, at 8 o'clock, to be examined by the official physician, Dr. L. E. Walsh, and to receive numbers and final instructions from the official starter of the race, Emil Schlenker, of Albany.

Each runner will be numbered, the numbers being attached to the backs of the contestants, so that they can easily be distinguished by the race officials and spectators.

Each runner in the race will be allowed one attendant to accompany him in the race, either on bicycle, automobile or other vehicle, for the purpose of keeping him informed as to the time he is making and the nearness of the runners following him, and to supply him with water, towel, sponge or similar things that tend to assist a runner over the twenty miles of the race.

Two automobiles, each containing an official checker, will alternate in stopping at stated points along the road, so that the runners can be checked up as they pass. This will insure absolute fairness to all runners, assuring that none receives unfair assistance and showing any who may drop out, so that they can be picked up and given attention.

Four judges will be appointed to decide and declare the winners. Two of the judges will be from Dougherty county and two from Worth county. They will witness the start at Albany and then proceed in an automobile to Sylvester to be at the finish when the runners come in.

There will be two official timers, one from Worth and one from Dougherty. They will take the time of the start from the official starter's pistol shot, and will then proceed by automobile to Sylvester to time the arrival of the winners.

All runners must keep in the road all the way from start to finish, and will not be permitted to run on sidewalks, either in Albany of Sylvester.

Arrangements are being made by the Woodmen of Worth county to feed a big crowd at Sylvester after the race is over. A monster barbecue dinner will be served at noon, after which the crowd will come to Albany on a special Coast Line train to see the Albany-Columbus baseball game.

AMATEURS HOLD MEET AT PIEDMONT FRIDAY

Record Entry List for the First Big Fourth of July Track Meet – Coach Joe Bean in Charge of Events

Piedmont park track at 9:45 o'clock on the Fourth of July. This is the location of the Amateur Athletic meet of the city of Atlanta in as few words as possible. At this time and place sixty-five of the city's best athletes will meet in track and field contests for championships of the city of Atlanta.

The 100-yard dash will be the first event run off and it will be called at 4:45.

The most interesting race will be the steeplechase which will start at the corner of Jackson and Tenth streets, down the roadway keeping to the right of the flags. Through the park the course goes and on through the lake. Emerging from the lake the runners will keep to the left of the flags to the track, circling the track to the finish at the judges' stand.

No contestant who is not participating in an event will be allowed on the track.

The events will be run off in the following order:

One hundred-yard dash, pole vault, shot put, final heat 100-yard dash, running high jump, 880-yard run, running broad jump, 440-yard run, hammer throw and steeplechase.

All athletes will wear a number corresponding to those furnished below, and are expected to be at entrance to park on west side of track at 9:45 o'clock.

The officials are: J. O. Cochran, referee; Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, J. W. Heisman, Dr. Dan T. Sage, W. P. Anderson and J. B. Jamison, judges and timers; Joe Bean, clerk of course; Charles Wahoo, shot and hammer throwing judge, and W. Alexander and Luther Hudson, judges high jump, broad jump and pole vault.

Here are the entries, numbers they will wear, events and organization they will represent:

Amateur athletics in Atlanta have long needed a boost and the big meet to be held on July Fourth is just the thing to add the necessary interest and Joe Bean is just the man to get the movement properly started. Joe Bean is known by both young and old athletes and they are all willing to enter any meet he has charge of, knowing that they will get the very best of attention.

It is expected that quite a crowd will be on hand at Piedmont park during Friday morning to watch the different events as they are run off. Everybody has a friend in the meet and will be on hand to cheer him to victory.

Foreigners Are Out To Take Olympic

NEW YORK, July 3.—The prediction is made that European athletes will give the United States team a much harder and closer battle for Olympic honors at Berlin in 1916 than heretofore, by J. W. S. Spalding, vice president of the American Olympic committee. As a result of his observations, while abroad, he asserts that American track and field performers will have to compete up to the high standard set in previous meets if they are to win the point trophies at the next Olympic games.

Athletes are on an organized basis in the leading countries of Europe, and American methods and trainers are rapidly bringing the standards up to a point where they compare favorably with those of the United States. The opening of the Berlin stadium on June 8 marked the formal preparations for the games of 1916, and France, Germany, England, Sweden, Italy and other countries are already planning to wrest athletic supremacy from the Americans at Berlin if possible.

It is the general opinion abroad, according to Spalding, that even though the United States wins at Berlin it will be by greatly reduced scores, and that 1920 will find the Olympic games an absolutely open contest with at least three or four countries closely grouped at the finish.

Motion to Forfeit Johnson's Bond

CHICAGO, July 3.—United States District Attorney Wilkerson has entered a motion in the federal court asking that the $30,000 bond given by Jack John, negro prize fighter, on eleven indictments under the Mann white slave act for which he has not yet been tried, be forfeited. Arguments on the motion will be heard tomorrow morning.

Appeal bonds for $15,000 also are pending against Johnson. Of the bonds given in the untried indictments, there is a provision that the negro must not leave the jurisdiction of the district court of northern Illinois.

Turkey Raising

FROM present indications there will be a large number of turkeys raised in Georgia this year. This has been one of the best seasons suited to turkey growing we have had in many years, and the people who have paid attention to their turkeys and are fortunate enough to have a lot will certainly come out on top this season. The spring months have been dry and it has caused the young turkeys to get a good start and practically out of danger. I have seen recently several large flocks of turkeys that certainly look promising and from all accounts the present outlook is very encouraging for the turkey growers this year.

This is something that could so easily be raised by thousands of farmers and something that cost but little to grow, especially where large meadows and pastures are available for the young turkeys to get grasshoppers which is the life of a turkey. Diseases of different kinds that seem to be fatal to turkeys have played havoc in many sections of the United States with this industry. It seems that only through the southern states are the parts that have escaped the dreaded disease known as blackhead among turkeys. It has killed thousands in a great many of the eastern states and has made it almost impossible to grow them in large numbers throughout the east. Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida up to the present time have escaped these diseases and the crop of turkeys through Texas and Tennessee especially for the past few years has brought millions of dollars out of the east into these sections, solid trainloads of turkeys having been shipped through the winter months to eastern states and most of this money was practically picked up from waste off of the average farm that would have never been converted into cash had it not been for the turkeys. It is surprising why more people do not pay attention to this wonderful crop every season and have several hundred dollars' worth of turkeys to market in the fall of every year.

If we had more grasses and more meadows over the south than we have at present we would see more turkeys as meadows produce a great many grasshoppers and make an ideal place for the breeding of them, and the main thing that turkeys seem to thrive on best this waste could be coverted into thousands of dollars if more attention was paid to this industry.

Recently I remember reading an article and seeing the pictures of a California turkey ranch where a daily ralsed them by the thousands and they had the range of an irrigated alfalfa field. It would be an interesting sight to see these turkeys in droves of thousands catching the grasshoppers just ahead of the water when it is turned on for irrigation purposes. As the water flows among the alfalfa roots it drives the grasshoppers by the thousands ahead of it and the turkeys in great droves follow the water and catch these insects which are converted into the most valuable food that can possibly be raised.

It is to be hoped that with the large amount of turkeys that are now being grown in Georgia and other southern states that a large per cent of them will be kept for breeding purposes and this country stocked with turkeys as it should be. Several turkey raisers to my knowledge have been so successful this year that their losses have been practically nothing except through accident, and have now practically raised every turkey they have hatched this season. It seems that the best way to raise turkeys is to let them go according to nature. They require a little special attention for the first few weeks of their lives and afterwards by following nature's care they seem to thrive better than by any other method that has been practiced in raising them, especially in large numbers. The old urkey hen seems to know best just what to do with her young, up to the present time very few people have been successful raising turkeys by artificial means like they do ducks and chickens. They having a different disposition do not seem to thrive as well when artificial methods are applied nothing like the equal of ducks or chickens. With food products of all kinds, especially grain being so scarce and selling at such high prices and will continue to do so for years to come there are but few things that the farmers and their wives could pay attention to that would pay them much better than a flock of turkeys.

Yours very truly,
(TO BE CONTINUED.)

MEDIUM SIZED ACREAGE TRACTS.

ALL OF US know the profit that is usually made from acreage. It is almost a conceded fact that if a person owns good acreage, he has a sure profit in it sooner or later.

When we think of acreage propositions, we think of lots of land, and naturally lots of money, because the usual acreage transaction involves a great deal of money.

The demand for good, close-in acreage for subdivision purposes is increasing every day. A trip to the outskirts of the city in any direction you choose to take will convince you of this fact.

We are going to offer a tract of about 100 acres, between Decatur and East Lake, which we have cut up into five, ten and fifteen-acre tracts. The price and terms on these tracts makes it possible for almost anybody to handle them.

REAL ESTATE LOANS

LOTS! LOTS! LOTS! LOTS!

THE WISE purchaser buys where all improvements have been made and the street cars reach the property, then values are assured. If you want to see some beautiful lots, covered with virgin forest, take the Baldtree-Honea car at Five Points, and look at the elegant lots in Brownwood Park. These lots have large frontages and good depths. They have sewer, water, electric lights, sidewalks and a street car line in front of them. As an investment proposition or for building purposes, there is nothing on the south side that can excel them. Go look them over and then talk with us about them.

GRAND VIEW LOTS—Bonaventure and North avenue. These lots are high above Ponce de Leon and have a very commanding view. The price is extremely low, considering the location and conveniences. Take a Ponce de Leon avenue car and get off at Bonaventure. Go out and look these lots over and then confer with us.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Which Registration Lists Will Apply in Senatorial Election.

Tax collectors in several counties have written to the governor to ascertain what registration lists they shall use in the election for a United States senator on July 15.

The law requires the tax collectors to furnish the registrars with lists of all qualified voters for each election and the registrars must revise the list, strike therefrom the names of any persons they find not entitled to vote and give hearings to any persons who claim to be qualified but whose names do not appear on the lists.

It is pointed out that the time elapsing before the election—fifteen days—is too short to permit the making of new lists and the revision of same by the registrars. The tax collectors want to know if the lists employed in the elections of last fall will suffice.

Many voters have paid their taxes and qualified since then, and under the law these would be entitled to vote. With the limited time between the tax collectors declare it would be a physical impossibility to make new and revised lists. In Fulton county alone it would be necessary to check some 15,000 names.

The attorney general will be asked for an opinion as to whether last year's lists can be used, provided any voter who has qualified since these lists were prepared is allowed to vote in the election.

Chairman Wheatley Will Give Dinner to Senate Appropriations Committee.

With a view to effecting a perfect understanding as to a program for the extended session of the general assembly two years Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of the house appropriations commiteee, early next week will entertain the members of his committee at a dinner at the Capital City club.

Other guests at this dinner will be Governor-elect Slaton, President Bazemore of the senate, and Speaker Burwell, of the house. All state appropriations must originate in the house and be passed upon by the appropriations committee.

Governor Slaton and the presiding officers of both houses are in hearty accord on the matter of economy. At Chairman Wheatley's dinner they will go into a detailed discussion of their views with the members of the committee so that when the committee enters upon its work of making up the financial budget of the state the members will be thoroughly posted as to the policies of the administration.

Governor Slaton Issues His First Official Proclamation.

Governor Slaton's first official proclamation has been issued and it calls for an election on July 15 to choose a United States senator to succeed Senator A. O. Bacon. This election is made necessary by the amendment to the federal constitution providing for direct election of United States senators. Senator Bacon will, of course, be elected to succeed himself.

Secretary of State Phil Cook is sending out the election blanks to the ordinaries of the various counties, who in turn must distribute them to the various election precincts. Under the law the election returns must be made to the speaker of the house and president of the senate.

Banks County People Want Dispensary.

With a score of new counties banging at the doors of the legislature for reorganization, the latest state unit—the grand old county of Banks—is through some of its citizens seeking to be dissolved.

The announcement that Banks county, or at least some of its influential citizens acting for it, is ready to give up its charter was made last week by W. Stark, of the Third district.

Banks county always has been a little bit different from the rest. It is known as the county in which the law knitting between the county of Habersham and the county of Jefferson, where the thriving towns of Cornelia and Commerce both are, and experienced occasional real estate booms.

Recent real estate spasms have centered both towns and some of the citizens of Commerce and Cornelia think that their towns should be county sites and have the benefits of courthouses, courts etc.

Senator Stark, who comes from Commerce, has been acquainted with the scheme of dissolving Banks county, attaching part of it to a part of Jefferson with Commerce as county site, and the remaining part of Habersham county with Cornelia as the county site of a new county.

Under this plan the unobtrusive county of Banks would cease to exist and in its place would arise two elbowing new state units, each with Commerce and Cornelia as county sites. Real estate prices in either place would boom, the state would get more taxes and everything would be lovely.

Senator Stark said Thursday that he did not take too kindly to the proposition of creating two new counties with the names of Jefferson and Habersham, but he admitted that there is considerable agitation in his section in favor of it.

Legislators Ask Aid of Woman's Suffrage Association.

Although the women of Georgia do not enjoy the privilege of the ballot, the fact that they wield a powerful influence in the affairs of the state was attested Wednesday afternoon when members of the general assembly addressed the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, and requested the aid and support of its members for certain measures pending before the legislature.

Representative C. B. McCrory, of Schley, besought the influence of the association for his bill which proposes that the state print its own school books and thereby break the trust which, he declares, levies an excessive tax upon the purchasers of school books.

Representative L. C. Allen, of Jackson, who is chairman of the house committee on hygiene and sanitation, urged the women to get behind a bill providing for medical inspectors for the public schools of the state.

Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall presided at the meeting, which was held in the auditorium of the Carnegie library. Mrs. Margaret McWhorter, chairman of the legislative committee of the association, reported on the work which the suffragists are doing before the legislature. She stated that a "real" child labor bill will be introduced soon.

The suffragists will make another hard fight to have the legislature pass a woman's lawyer's bill. It is said, be introduced by Representative L. J. Cooper, of Ware. Among the other measures which have the support of the suffragists are the vital statistics, county probation, compulsory education and women school teachers' pension bills.

Mr. Maddox Presents Governor Slaton Handsome Sword.

When Governor Slaton went to his office in the capitol last Saturday he found upon his desk a very large package. It contained an elaborate inkstand, presented to him by his friend, R. F. Maddox, former mayor of Atlanta.

This inkstand is of cut glass and gold and is set in a circle of buck antlers and ivory tusks. Attached to the package was a card upon which was written the following:

"I congratulate Georgia upon your message of today and the stand you took for conservatism. I hope you will accept this inkstand with my best wishes. I hope from it you may pen other messages and then write your approval upon the bills which have your policies into law.

Your friend,
"ROBERT F. MADDOX."

Carl Vinson, Ex-legislator, Says New Counties are Needed

Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, formerly the representative from Baldwin county and speaker pro tem of the house, but now judge of the city court in his home town, was in the city Wednesday mixing with his old friends among the lawmakers.

Speaking of the great number of new counties seeking approval of the legislature this year, Judge Vinson said that in many instances new counties should be created.

"I have watched the new counties that were created in Georgia during the past few years and I say the legislature," he said, "and there is not one instance, to my knowledge, where the community has not been benefited by the county division. The old parent counties seemed to take on a new life and the young counties enjoyed unmeasured prosperity.

"In each instance the tax value of property has increased and the division has acted as a boon to those immediate communities."

Standing Offers of Rewards Have Been Revoked by Governor Slaton.

A proclamation revoking all rewards offered by the state prior to January 1, 1913, except such as the law requires to be continued indefinitely, was issued Wednesday afternoon by Governor Slaton. The proclamation wiped out standing rewards aggregating about $5,000.

It is customary when a new administration takes over the affairs of the state for the governor to revoke rewards of six months' standing and over. The only rewards which are not subject to revokement are those offered for the apprehension of persons guilty of burning gin houses, counterfeiting the great seal of the state, and forging land grants. These are very few of such rewards outstanding.

VETERANS BEGIN PARADE BEFORE BREAK OF DAY

Gettysburg Camp Awakened by Aged Men With Bands Before Sun Up

(By Associated Press.)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 3.—Although thousands of veterans had left the uncertain joys of camp life behind and started for home, their going made little difference in the appearance of the Gettysburg battlefield camp today, for thousands of others were here to participate in the anniversary day.

Long before sunup today the blue and gray veterans began parading the camp to the music of "The Streets of Cairo," played on fife and drums. The paraders were hard workers, and the band had powerful lungs and hands, for they kept it up for hours.

Many of the men who expect to leave tomorrow paid the farewell calls on the veterans of the army they have come to know. In the days they have been here the feeling was the best.

There is no doubt in the minds of those in charge from top to bottom that, so far as these men who have gathered here are concerned, the war has ceased to be a bone of contention.

Under a hot sun the men in gray marched across the field that has not seen anything more warlike than a black snake in fifty years. The "enemy" in blue was waiting with weapons ready, and when they met across the walls that form the boundaries of the field. Afterwards they looked over the ground for the site for a $250,000 monument they hope to see completed in time.

Governors Tener, of Pennsylvania, McCreary, of Kentucky, and Sulzer, of New York, arrived today. Provision has been made on the platform with the generals and governors for Vice President Marshall and the big congressional delegation from Washington.

CONFEDERATES' RESOLUTIONS.

At a meeting of Confederates the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, by the ex-Confederates at Gettysburg assembled. That our thanks are due, and are hereby extended, to the state of Pennsylvania for initiating the movement which has made it possible for the survivors of the two armies which fought in this illustrious field, after years to meet in friendships here today and plant a monument of peace, a monument which shall stand as the symbol of American unity, valor and fraternity.

"Resolved, That we thank the government of the United States for the inauguration of the movement by which it has seconded the efforts of the state of Pennsylvania in carrying forward to completion the work of fraternity between the blue and gray; and, without any self-abasement whatsoever, we desire to affirm and pledge not only ourselves but our brethren ex-Confederates and all the people of our loved southland to the utmost loyalty to the government of United States and to the flag of our country.

"Resolved, That we take pride in the fact that the valor of the Confederacy is due the credit of developing to the utter impossibility of the dismemberment of the Union. When we consider that 600,000 men—the very flower of chivalry, as good material as was ever organized in a fighting force did direct battle commanders as the beloved Robert E. Lee and his lieutenants. Inspired by a sectional devotion such as has not elsewhere been known in history, failed to overthrow the union, we see that the demonstration was complete, that the thing was not to be done, and our future must be devoted to those who in the future would contemplate such an undertaking."

Victims of Stabbing Are Reported as Doing Well

(By Associated Press.)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 3.—All of the victims of the stabbing of Philadelphia, who ran amuck in the dinning room of a Gettysburg hotel last night are reported doing well today. Charles Ensor, who received the most dangerous wounds, is not out of danger, but the doctors say there is little likelihood of his death unless complications arise.

BRUNSWICK PLANS FOR BIG GEORGIA REUNION

Confederate Veterans of Georgia Division to Gather There July 16-17

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 3.—In the coming reunion of the Georgia division, United Confederate Veterans, July 16 and 17, the people of Brunswick will give the old veterans the greatest entertainment, the greatest comfort and the most enjoyable time ever tendered them during the fourteen annual reunions that have preceded this.

Large crowds will be in Brunswick at the time of the reunion. The state national guard will be encamped on St. Simons Island. Governor Slaton and other state officials and the state senate have been invited to Brunswick for the occasion, and extraordinary numbers of other visitors are expected, but Brunswick is making complete preparations to take care of everybody.

A large entertainment fund has been subscribed by the citizens of Brunswick. It is ample to cover every contingent expense. The veterans will be sheltered in army tents; their meals will be cooked and served under the auspices of a committee of Brunswick women in large tents on the same square with the veterans' tents. An information bureau, in charge of competent men, will be maintained in the lobby of the county court house, which is in the center of the square where all tents will be placed.

Twenty Boy Scouts will be at the service of the veterans to show them about the city, and telephone service, installed for the benefit of the veterans, will be maintained also.

The grand ball will be given in the ball room of the Oglethorpe hotel, which is second to none in the state of Georgia. The decorations will be on a magnificent scale, and from the grand march at 10 o'clock in the evening of the 16th, to "Home, Sweet Home" at the close of the ball the old veterans will have a run of enjoyment they will remember to the time of their final Grand Reunion.

The veterans will be given a boat ride about Brunswick Bar and to St. Simons Island as the closing event of the reunion. Brunswick's harbor is her greatest asset, and she wishes the visiting veterans to carry away with them a lasting picture of its renowned beauties.

CINCINNATI ICE PLANTS OPERATED BY CITY BOARD

Seven Non-Union Works Run by Health Board, to Relieve Suffering

(By Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, O., July 3.—Seven non-union ice plants seized by order of Mayor Hunt were operated today by the board of health in an effort to relieve the suffering caused by the strike of ice workers.

The machinery of the different plants was in charge of striking engineers and firemen, who were ordered to return to work by union officials under an agreement made with the mayor.

While the manufacturers denounced the action of the city, they had taken no steps today to regain possession of the plants.

New York Drunks Now Being Finger Printed To Spot 'Em in Future

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 3.—At the height of the summer drinking season the recently announced plan of finger printing everyone found guilty of intoxication has been put into effect. The police court magistrates found yesterday upon the first trial of the scheme that the police department did not have enough finger print experts to go around. Notwithstanding this more than forty "drunks" were subjected to the new indentification process.

The prints are to be filed away in the police courts and by means of them the magistrates hope to separate the professional drinkers from the mere amateurs. Admission to professional ranking carries with it a term in the workhouse on Blackwell's Island. A sufficient number of finger prints will further secure admission to the city's home for inebriates, when it is built.

Send Drunks to Hospital

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Hereafter under the new excise law put in force in the District of Columbia, any persons suspected of having "drunk not wisely but too well" will be taken to a hospital for examination by a physician. Orders to this effect were issued today by Superintendent of Police Sylvester. The examining physician in each case will be called upon later to act as an expert witness in police court, whenever the convivial prisoner protests his innocence.

UP TO LEGISLATURE.

"I am going to submit my plans to the state legislature," he explained. "I am going to give them the facts I have collected, and it will be up to them more or less. Georgia can cheapen the cost of school appreciably; of that I have no doubt.

"I have cited Ontario as an example because of Canadian province has taken great steps in this matter and has been eminently successful. In the experience of Ontario can be found a counter for every assertion made by the representatives of book concerns."

In discussing the way the school books are to be revised and edited, Mr. McCrory said:

"It is a simple matter to make up the text of an elementary reader. Any set of intelligent teachers should be able to shape together a series of elementary books as good and for that matter much better, than the Lee Readers now being used in Georgia. They could be more local in illustration and teach the growing child more about his native state and section.

ABOUT COPYRIGHTS.

"There is little argument in the assertion that the state would have to pay enormous sums for copyrights. A man can not copyright the general system of arithemetic or grammer. He can copyright his name as the author of certain arithmetic or grammar or school book, but another man equally as clever can get out a book equally as good.

"The argument that Ontario prints its school books cheaply because of the difference in price between Canadian and American book paper does not stand either. Verbatim reports of the investigation made by the legislative assembly of the province into the school book question show that Canadian book paper at times is higher in Canada than American paper is in the United States."

Representative McCrory's hope for the present session of the legislature is in a resolution he has introduced to appoint an investigating committee to meet between sessions, call in witnesses and go to the bottom of the school book situation.

While he has a bill providing that the state undertake the supervision of its school books at once, he is certain that the resolution for an investigation will meet favorable reception. An investigation into the facts, he asserts, will convince any legislator of the advisability of proceeding with some sort of system for state printed text books.

FIGHT ON BOLL WEEVIL WINNING, SAY FIGURES

Hypothetical Loss From Insect Damage Grows Less—Tremendous Loss Is Total

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The enormous sum of $1,983,564,757 represents the hypothetical money loss through damage from various causes to the cotton crops of 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1912 in the United States, the department of agriculture's bureau of statistics has figured out. No less than 16,094,792,100 pounds of lint loss is the aggregate of this damage to the four crops. The causes and extent of this damage to cotton form an interesting feature of a report just issued. Climate conditions formed the principal element of loss.

Damage to the 1912 crop amounted to $459,349,251 or 3,765,157,000 pounds of lint. The total damage from climate conditions was $197,200,000, of which $115,300,000 was due to deficient moisture, $112,100,000 to excessive moisture and $17,000,000 to bent of hot winds. Other causes and extent of damage were: Plant diseases $62,90,000. insect damage $81,800,000; animal damage $900,000; defective seed $4,600,000, and other damages from unknown causes $13,400,000.

A feature of the report is the decreasing extent of damage from insects, indicating the success of the fight against the boll weevil. Last year the damage from insects was lower than in any of the four years, the extent in 1911 being $9,900,000, in 1910 that was $90,100,000 and in 1909, $11,300,000.

Damage from excessive moisture last year was the principal cause of an increase in the damage over that of 1911 when the total damage was $409,470,033. In 1910 it was $523, 890,988 and in 1909 it was $590,851,517. Deficient moisture was the principal cause of less in the latter three years.

Minister Backs Out of Fishing Trip Because He Walks in His Sleep

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 3.—On Tuesday of next week the Methodist ministers of Savannah and several from other cities will put to sea from Thunderbolt in two staunch fishing smacks for a week on the salts.

Rev. W. T. Stanford, of Savannah, was to have been a member of the party, but has cancelled his reservation because, it is said, he sometimes walks in his sleep and fears that he might step into the sea some night.

Lady Gregory's Handkerchief

(Boston Transcript.)

Handkerchiefs—and china jugs—are Lady Gregory's hobby. Not filmy, Eighteenth century affairs; indeed they are often of the coarsest calico and very, very obstreperous in hue. Like the jugs, they are historical, they present some well known figure or preserve some famous event. In England and Ireland this form of souvenir has long been popular, and Lady Gregory has such handkerchiefs from King George's coronation back to some comparatively recent happening. In America she could only find one, however, a commemorative of Woodrow Wilson's inauguration. So, naturally enough, she set about supplying the deficiency. For the special matinees which the Irish players are giving to raise money for an art gallery in Dublin, she has had printed on what may be Irish linen a scene from "Blanco Posnet," which includes practically all the company, eight drawings of the principal actors by Jack B. Yeats, and some appropriate letter press. This from W. B. Yeats:

Look up in the sun's eye, and give
What the exalted heart calls good,
That some new day may know the best;
Because you gave, not what they would,
But the right twigs for an eagle's nest.

And from Lady Gregory's "Jackdaw:"

Michael Cooney—Where is the use of calling it a land, when I know I shall never see it again? It might as well earn me the value of charity.

Across the top runs the words: "Sold by the Irish Players at $1 towards a building to save Sir Hugh Lane's great gift of pictures for Ireland, April, 1913."

The Modern Traveler

C. E. D. Phelps.

The modern traveling (the heroic explorers of old belong to another class) is formed by leisure, opportunity and a certain easiness in pecuniary matters—like that plant whose seed vessels burst in heat, so explodes his shell of habit when the sun of prosperity shines warmly, and forthwith he is scattered to the four winds. "It's a small world," quoth he pedantically, as he goes to and fro over the earth, and finds therein many delightful persons resembling himself. Like the man in the cabinet lined with mirrors, his reflections are numerous, and all alike. No wonder he feels like Sancho Pancho Fanez's hazelnut inhabitant of a mustard-seed world.

MILLIONAIRE HIDES OUT THREE YEARS TO DODGE SOCIETY WHIRL

John O'Brien, Heir to $1,200,000, Has Been Earning $1,500 Annually as Engineer While Nation Wide Search for Him Was in Progress

VAN BUREN, Ark., July 3.—Utter weariness of being merely a millionaire is the reason John O'Brien, of New York, who has been missing for three years, today advanced in explanation of his long absence from the ken of old friends.

Mr. O'Brien is a former Soccer football star of Columbia university. He mysteriously vanished at the close of his college year in 1910. He was found yesterday in this town, where he is working as an assistant engineer for a railroad.

"Why should I worry about being heir to $1,200,000," said Mr. O'Brien today. "I have a job. When I convince myself that I have made good in the world, I will return home. I became tired tired of being a rich man with nothing to do except play the society game and study new ways to kill time. Just now I wouldn't trade my $1,500 a year position for the biggest fortune in the world."

Mr. O'Brien added that his mother has known of his whereabouts, though a nation-wide search has been made for him.

MRS. FLANDERS WILL NOT BE TRIED FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

PARTIES ARE PROMINENT.

The McNaughton-Flanders case is famous largely because of the prominence of the families of the principals. Fred Flanders came from one of the strongest and best known families in the southern part of the state. Mrs. Flanders was Miss Mattie Fields, a member of another influential family. She now is living with her father at Bartow, Ga.

At the trial of Dr. McNaughton it was alleged that the motive for the alleged crime was the friendship of Dr. McNaughton and Mrs. Flanders, in whose home the physician boarded. It was alleged that the husband was poisoned slowly by the physician, and that the victim's wife was an accessory to the alleged crime.

Dr. McNaughton is still in the Savannah jail, where he is held since his conviction. He was respited by Governor Brown until Mrs. Flanders was brought to trial.

Mrs. Flanders repeatedly has stated that she would welcome a trial of her case as it would prove her complete innocence, but the noile prossing of the issue will have practically the same meaning as an acquittal by a jury.

"Skyscraper Day Is Passing"

(Springfield (Mass.) Republican.)

That the day of the skyscrapers is passing of the reign of Mr. McAneny, president of the Borough of Manhattan, is the remarks at the New York City club luncheon a few days ago. The time is coming, he said, when no more will be built and those remaining will be viewed as curiosities as they are taken down. New York, he told his hearers, has lagged behind European and some American cities in city planning, but is now rapidly catching up, and the commission contemplated in a bill soon to be presented to the legislature will transform New York in a decade so that some parts of it will not be recognizable.

The great problem is to reduce congestion, and for this purpose there is need of rapid transit, to remove one congested place to another, as commercial considerations would dictate, but from congested places to places where there is still room space.

"If we keep on permitting private owners to build three or four buildings on one lot by throwing them upwards in the air," he concluded, "there will come a time when these buildings will send forth more people than the streets will hold or the transportation facilities be able to carry."

Viewpoints

"You shouldn't be dissatisfied," said the Optimist. "Look at all you have."

"Yes," assented the Pessimist; "but look at all I haven't."

GIVEN PRISON TERM FOR INCITING RIOT

Leader for Industrial Workers of World Must Go to Prison and Pay Fine

(By Associated Press.)

PATERSON, N. J., July 3.—Patrick Quinlan, a leader for the Industrial Workers of the World, was sentenced today to serve not less than two years nor more than seven years in state's prison and to pay a fine of $500. He was convicted recently of inciting riot among striking silk mill workers.

The jury in the case of Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, tried on a similar charge, had reached no agreement at noon.

RABBI CALLS FOR STRICT OBSERVANCE OF SABBATH

Rabbi Samuel Schulman Addresses Central Conference American Rabbis

(By Associated Press.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 3.—Rabbi Samuel Schulman, of New York, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis in session here, declared, in his annual address yesterday, against the organization of sectional conferences as detrimental to the interests of the national body; called for a stricter observance of the Jewish Sabbath; recommended the election of rabbis by their congregations for a life term and urged that the constitution of the conference be amended so as not to prohibit the re-election of a president after two terms of service.

Rabbi Schulman denounced the lately organized Eastern Council of Reformed Rabbis as a sectional organization which could only "inaptly duplicate the work of the national body or strive to overshadow and discredit it." The conference, he said, should "in no uncertain terms make it clear that sectional conferences are detrimental to the central conference of American Rabbis, should not be encouraged and as soon as possible their members should be earnestly requested to disband and reorganize, if a new organization is at all necessary, among purely local lines."

In his plea for stricter observance of the Jewish Sabbath, Rabbi Schulman recommends the appointment of a "Sabbath observance committee" in America.

"We want to solve this problem," he said, "if we can, not only as Jews, but as Americans. The object of such committee should be to create interest in various parts of the country for the Sabbath idea, to bring to men's minds the right of the Jew to observe his own Sabbath without molestation and without the questioning of his Americanism."

Asks Press and Pulpit To Plead With Women To Put on More "Petti's"

(By Associated Press.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 3.—Mayor Van Swearingen, the newly elected mayor, today called upon the women of the city to quit wearing the thin petticoatless attire so much in vogue and especially the split skirts, declaring that if the supposedly decent women of the city will abandon this immoral attire, he will see that the other class of women are driven off the streets. He asks the press to begin a crusade against immoral dress and will ask the ministers of Jacksonville to co-operate from the pulpits.

Savannah Aroused, Too

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 3.—The people of Savannah have been very much interested in the appeal issued by the mayor of Jacksonville, Fla., to the ladies of that town to wear more clothes.

The same criticism might be made of some of the ladies of Savannah. On some corners and on the veranda of one of Savannah's most exclusive clubs there gather little coteries of curious masculines to study feminine anatomy through the assistance of thin skirts and the piercing rays of old Sol.

Demands Nickels; Gets Kick

(By Associated Press.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 3.—Police were searching the outlying district south of the city today for the youthful bandit who late last night boarded a car at the end of the line, pointed a revolver at the conductor, demanded the nickels, and received instead a kick that sent him back to earth. However, as he landed, the bandit fired a bullet into the conductor's leg. The car contained no passengers.
